U. S. Rejects "Deals" To End War

Soviet Moves In U.N. Again Turned Down

Five Nations Back American Stand

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 2 (AP) — American Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin heatedly rejected today any "deals" for a settlement of the Korean war.

Austin turned down for the second straight day in the Security Council a Soviet move to link the question of Red China's entrance into the U. N. with the Korean war. He said the United States will never agree that the end of North Korean aggression depends on any other issue.

"So long as men are dying on the battlefield in defense of the United Nations," Austin said, "this council will not wish to cheapen their suffering or sully their heroism by seeming to engage in the consideration of deals."

No Action On Agenda

The American also rejected again a Soviet move intended to water down the council's previous decision that Communist-supported North Korea is the aggressor against the Republic of Korea, which is backed by the U. N.

The council adjourned at 5:15 p.m. EST until 2 p.m. tomorrow without acting on its agenda. The Soviet Union is seeking to have the council take up the question of seating Communist China before going on to the Korean problem.

Austin joined five other delegates in demanding the council put everything aside except the issue of aggression upon the Republic of Korea, a question that has been before the council five weeks. Backing Austin were Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain, Jean Chauvel of France, Arne Sunde of Norway, Antonio Quevedo of Ecuador and Alberto I. Alvarez of Cuba.

Austin's Statement

In his short statement today, Austin said:

"The act of aggression against the Republic of Korea is the most urgent business before the United Nations. Under this agenda item, every member of the council is completely free to make proposals leading toward the termination of the breach of the peace. If any delegate has proposals to make or resolutions to submit regarding the breach of the peace in Korea they can be made within the framework of the agenda item which has been before this council for the last five weeks. If there are proposals to be made, refusal to present them within the council's regular agenda inevitably will cast doubt on their sincerity.

"As I stated yesterday, the United States cannot agree that the question of Chinese representation can

Two Anti-Red Bills Submitted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—A bill which would outlaw the Communist Party, and another which would require all Communists to register as agents of a foreign government were introduced in the House today.

The new measures were offered just as a move was started to bring the controversial Mundt-Nixon Communist curbing bill to the House floor for action.

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) submitted the proposal which would make it unlawful to belong or to be affiliated with the Communist Party. Violators could be imprisoned for 10 years and fined $10,000.

The proposal to require Communists to register as foreign agents came from Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) He is a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee which has been considering the Mundt-Nixon bill.

Would Go Into Effect If Costs Pass Set Point

Plan Approved By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee voted today for automatic price and wage controls and rationing if the cost of living rises to some point which the committee will fix later.

The alarm clock method of invoking the curbs was approved by a voice vote. This reversed a 12-1 vote 45 minutes earlier for the general idea of standby powers for President Truman to put on such controls if and when he sees the need.

The committee acted after signs had appeared in the House that the administration was grabbing up the standby authority ball. In that branch a last-minute substitute was introduced to broaden the limited economic control measure orginally sponsored by the White House. Backed by administration leaders, it included the standby powers.

Before it got into the price-wage-rationing issue, the Senate committee definitely wrote into he ball an amendment hitting hard at hoarders and black marketeers with a threat of a year in jail and fines up to $10,000.

Fulbright's Plan

Sen. Fullbright (D-Ark) advanced the automatic plan for pay and consumer controls, which appears in some respects to run counter to administration desires.

Mr. Truman advised Congress yesterday that he would have "no objections" to the addition of standby powers if they were not allowed to get in the way of the other controls he did ask.

Fulbright said that while details have not been worked out, he contemplates giving the President discretion to slap controls on a single industry, or a single commodity, if prices in a particular field appear to be getting out of hand.

But, the Senator added, the President would have no discretion as to overall price-wage-rationing controls if general costs rose above a specified point.

Price Freeze Rejected

Before it got into the general price-pay-rationing issue, the committee rejected on a voice vote a proposal by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) for a six-months freeze of all prices at the levels of June 30, five days after the Korean war broke out.

While the House and the Senate committee labored over the question of how tight to draw those reefs in the nation's economic sails, there were these related moves:

1. Mr. Truman was reported considering a call for blanket authority to put rent controls back on any area where the mobilization effort requires them.

2. The Commerce Department did spadework toward tightening of export controls over materials essential to arms making.

3. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan accused speculators of trying to take advantage of the emergency for big profits on farm and food products, and called for measures to stop them.

Doctor-Dentist Draft Measure Offered In House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — A bill to require doctors, dentists and medical technicians up to age 45 to register with draft boards for possible induction in the armed forces was introduced in the House today.

The measure is sponsored by Rep. Saylor (R-Pa), who as a naval officer took part in the invasion of Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

His bill would amend the Selective Service Act, setting up a special classification in the medical field to help the armed forces get needed doctors if necessary.

Those called up would serve for 21 months, the same length of time as other draftees, whose registration age is 18 through 25 years.

Leftist "Peace" Marchers Clash With N. Y. Police

13 Demonstrators Arrested In Brawl

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Leftist "peace" marchers — banned from heavily-guarded Union Square — defiantly clashed with police today in a tense, noisy brawl.

An estimated 2,000 marchers formed ranks amid thousands of home-going workers at the height of the rush hour.

"We want peace—open up the square," they cried.

Mounted police charged their ranks and scattered them but they reformed again and again as the brawl swirled through the streets of downtown Manhattan.

A 1,000-man police detail—stationed like an army around the square—spent an hour breaking up the demonstration.

Fists flew at times and several injuries were reported. At least one window was smashed.

13 Marchers Arrested

Thirteen of the marchers were arrested, most of them charged with disorderly conduct or assault.

Two sign-waving demonstrators were plucked by police from light poles after fire department ladders were called in.

An estimated 10,000 persons making their way peacefully along sidewalks in the Union Square area were thrown into a turmoil by the fighting.

The demonstrators shouted "Cossack" at the mounted police who charged down on them. Cossacks were the fierce horsemen who served the Russian czars.

The New York Labor Conference for Peace, which sponsored the forbidden rally, later released the text of a telegram it said was sent to Mayor William O'Dwyer.

"Brutality" Charged

It accused mounted police of trampling "on the advocates of peace—men and women, bystanders and participants."

It charged that police clubbed the marchers, adding:

"Mr. Mayor, it was quite a spectacle of brutality and blood."

The marchers were to have gathered to hear speeches by Negro Singer Paul Robeson and Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, chairman of the Peace Information Center.

The center has led in the distribution of peace petitions calling for the outlawing of the atom bomb Government officials have called the petitions Communist-inspired.

Action Viewed As Last Major U.N. Pullback

Yongdok Retaken; U. S. Marines Land

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 3 (AP) — American troops today fell back on the central front to make the Naktong River the United Nations defense barrier for much of the north and west sides of the Korean beachhead.

Field dispatches said the general withdrawal was expected to be the last major U. N. pullback of the war. Battle-ready U. S. Marines streamed ashore and started immediately for the hard-pressed lines. Ahead of them were Army reinforcements which had arrived earlier.

However, on the east coast, the Reds were chased out of the battered city of Yongdok by the South Korean Third Division Wednesday under the covering fire of a U. S. cruiser and destroyers.

A Far East naval communique said the South Korean counterattack carried three miles north of Yongdok, northeast anchor of the twisting front.

One of the critical sectors was west of Pusan, the main supply port at the Southeastern tip of Korea. Fighting raged only 40 miles to the west of the city.

The general withdrawal, however, apparently did not extend this far south on the western side of the box-shaped beachhead.

Latest field reports said Army tanks and troops were engaged in bloody fighting after halting a powerful Korean Communist thrust 40 miles west of Pusan with a counter-attack. The Americans drove within three to five miles of Chinju before returning to their positions, an Eighth Army communique said today.

Planned Withdrawal

The general withdrawal—planned and orderly—began two days ago. Its aim apparently was to relieve the heavy pressure of 10 Red divisions—possibly 100,000 troops—until fresh Army and newly-arrived Marine units can get into combat.

The Reds were pressing hard all along the shrunken U. N. defense perimeter which outnumbered American and South Korean forces have been holding. The line was marked by flaming towns and villages from Chinju, 55 miles west of Pusan, on the south, to Yongdok on the east coast 80 miles north of the key port.

The Eighth Army communique said South Korean troops had fought "to the town" of Yongdok and were pursuing the retreating Reds.

For two days, the Americans and South Koreans have been pulling back behind the Naktong River on the north. They gave up their old line from Hamchang at the northwest corner of the box to Andong, eastward toward Yongdok. The Americans on the north-south front just below Hamchang withdrew from Sangju eastward to new positions behind the river. Wednesday, they did the same on the Kumchon front, abandoning the town 30 miles northwest of Taegu.

Senate Group Votes 10% Tax On TV Sets, Home Freezers

Truman Dealt Political Blow By Mo. Voters

By International News Service

President Truman was dealt a stunning political blow Wednesday when administration-backed Emery W. Allison, of Rolla, Mo., went down to defeat in his quest for the Missouri senatorial nomination in the Democratic primary race.

Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., St. Louis attorney, slanted his campaign directly at presidential interference with the slogan "Let the people pick their senator." On the basis of almost complete returns Hennings had 179,150 votes in Tuesday's primary to 174,231 for Allison.

On the Republican ticket, the Missouri nomination went to incumbent Sen. Donnell, who easily defeated three political unknowns. Donnell has been marked down for defeat by labor in the fall general election.

In Kansas balloting, the voters slapped down candidates backed by former Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican 1936 candidate for president.

Gov. Frank Carlson held a 13,000-vote lead over his lone opponent, Landon-backed Harry W. Colmery of Topeka.

In the gubernatorial race, Edward F. Arn, supported by Gov. Carlson, gained an even more decisive victory over Landon's former secretary Willard Mayberry, an Elkhart, Kan., publisher. Paul Aiken led the Democratic race.

Excise Slash Bill Dealt Death Blow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted today to put a 10 per cent tax on television sets and home freezers.

The television manufacturer's tax would bring in $42,000,000 a year, the home freezers another $8,000,000.

This was the first action on President Truman's emergency tax bill, a plan to increase federal taxes by $5,000,000,000 to help pay for the vast arms program.

The committee did not get around to Mr. Truman's proposal to boost income taxes, although Secretary of the Treasury Snyder urged it should act promptly.

Excise Cut Bill Junked

But it did agree to junk a bill which would have cut $1,010,000,000 in excise cuts. This, however, was a mere formality. The death of the excise tax bill—which would have cut the taxes on jewelry, movie tickets, furs, luggage and cosmetics—had been long predicted.

In addition to taxing television sets and home freezers, the committee voted to pick up an additional $5,000,000 a year by increasing the tax on slot machines in operation. The tax would go up from $100 to $150. for each machine.

Before the taxes become effective they must be approved by the full Senate and the House.

Another attempt to get a tax increase failed. This was a drive to get immediate action on an excess profits tax, aimed at war "profiteering." But its backers said the fight had just begun.

"Temporary Setback"

The first test came on a bill dealing with the renegotiations of defense contracts. Rep. Mills (D-Ark) proposed that a study of excessive profits—and their taxation — be made a part of the renegotiation procedure.

The House Ways and Means Committee turned him down, 15 to 8.

"The vote is nothing but a temporary setback," Mills told reporters later.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder asked Congress to act promptly on President Truman's proposed $5,000,000,000 tax boost. He warned that another proposal—increasing taxes by more billions—may be expected soon.

Chairman George (D-Ga), of the Senate Finance Committee, predicted that Mr. Truman's tax proposal will be passed speedily and "substantially as submitted."

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 2 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, whose movements have been a mystery in recent months, was reported back in Moscow today.

The Prague Socialist newspaper Svobodne Slovo said he attended a reception there yesterday.

"Case Dismissed"

WESTBORO, Mass., Aug. 2 (AP)—Pvt. William Gamble, Worcester, spent part of his furlough fishing here and was picked up by a game warden for having short bass.

He told Judge Francis X. Reilly today that he had orders to go to Korea.

"Case dismissed," Judge Reilly said.

Timid Cat Rescued Twice From Birds

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 2 (AP)—The Humane Society here has answered a call to protect a cat from birds.

On Monday the cat was on a rooftop. three birds were making dive bomber passes at it.

Yesterday the timid animal was marooned on the crossbar of a telephone pole—possibly chased there by a sparrow. A single bird continued to make sweeping forays at the tabby's head.

Then someone called the Humane Society. A lineman rescued the bird-pecked cat.

du Pont Leads H-Bomb Search

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The United States appeared today to be gearing itself to produce a hydrogen bomb without slackening — perhaps even while increasing — its pace on A-bombs.

A major segment of the job was assigned to the du Pont Company, already experts in making plutonium which goes into the present atomic weapons.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced a move which — while the AEC did not say so — could mean that the commission is going to make large quantities of tritium, a possible ingredient of the H-bomb, without curtailing the production of plutonium.

Today the AEC announced it had appointed the du Pont Company to design, construct and operate some brand new plants of "advanced design." These would be for the production of materials "which can be used either for weapons or for fuels potentially useful for power purposes."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 3 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow.

Russia Violates U.N. Obligations, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson today accused Russia of violating its United Nations obligations by stalling when it should be working for peace in Korea.

The charge, was made informally and in the course of chiding Russia's U. N. delegate, Jakob A. Malik, was Acheson's main reaction to Malik's performance at yesterday's session of the U. N. Security Council.

Aides said that what Acheson had in mind was:

(1) Malik's insistence on placing the issue of China's membership in the U. N. ahead of a pending resolution on the Korean crisis and

(2) Malik's claims that the United States is the aggressor in Korea even though the United Nations has already branded the North Korean Communists as the aggressors.

Speaking at a news conference, Acheson also made clear that the United States is considering supplying arms to the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa. This would strengthen the island against a possible Communist assault.

Loan To Spain Opposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today came out strongly against a Senate proposal to give Spain a $100,000,000 loan.

He told a news conference that if any such loan is justified, the Export-Import Bank has the money on hand to make it.

Here Acheson came into conflict with the Senate.

It passed an amendment yesterday which would, in effect, deprive the bank from using its own judgment on the wisdom of such a loan.

The amendment — to a $35,000,000,000 appropriations bill—said the Marshall Plan administrator "is authorized and directed" to make a loan to Spain. The amendment still must get the approval of the House.

Slashes Throat And Saves Life

The story came out today after the brother, Roald Lutness returned to his farm from a hospital.

Roald found it difficult to breathe after a baseball hit his throat. He asked his sister-in-law, who once trained three months to be a nurse, to operate with a jackknife.

Bernard Lutness handed his wife a knife he had been using to scrape paint from building on their Northeastern Montana farm. She probed with the knife but didn't find the windpipe.

Bernard got the paring knife, which had been sharpened for chicken killing. He probed with it and found the windpipe. Mrs. Lutness inserted a small rubber tube from a syringe in the opening.

The three drove 25 miles to Plentywood in less than 20 minutes.

Dr. A. N. Pronin replaced the rubber tube with a metal tube. He complimetned the amateur surgeons, saying the incision was in the right place and only one-fourth inch longer than he would have made it.

Profits Of Corporations Hit Record-Breaking Pace

NEW YORK, Aug. (AP) — Corporation profits are running at record rate, with the second quarter total 43 per cent higher than a year ago.

This upward surge developed without the stimulus of war which did not boost prices, sales and earnings until the start of the second half of the year.

A compilation made today by the Associated Press of the earnings of 450 corporations in all fields of business showed these totals:

1950 second quarter $1,625,040,257; 1949 second quarter $1,132,763,017; increase: 43 per cent.

1950 first half $2,865,306,259; 1949 first half $2,319,616,453; increase: 24 per cent.

Thep ercentage of gain over a year ago reflects the quickie recession during the first half of 1949 which, of course, makes today's earnings look even bigger by comparison.

But the absolute dollar totals during the second quarter this year are running at an annual rate that would top any other full year.

Profits made an all-time high in 1948, and the total last year was only 2.6 per cent below that peak, an Associated Press compilation showed.

Six Killed In Freak Railroad Accident

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 2(AP)—Six persons were killed and 11 injured yesterday in a freak railroad accident on a steep grade between the ancient Inca ruins of Machupicchu and the city of Cuzco.

A railroad engineer, finding that his locomotive could not pull the entire train up the steep grade, ordered the last two cars—one a passenger and the other carrying baggage—to be unhitched.

A brakeman unhitched to cars, but neglected to put on the brakes. The cars shot dizzily backwards down the hill and jumped the track at a curve, plunging into the Urubamba River.

The phenomena was observed for about 20 minutes.

Hopkins Scientist Chases Cold With Geiger Counter

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP) — A Johns Hopkins scientist today reported he and his associates have discovered a new and important tool in the long search for something that will prevent or cure the common cold.

Using a Geiger counter and radio active phosphorous from the atomic plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., they have found out how to tell whether a half-hatched chicken egg has a cold.

Dr. Thomas G. Ward, of the Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, told of the discovery in the American Journal of Hygiene.

It is important because so far there has been no way of detecting simply whether a laboratory specimen contained the cold virus.

The only way to find out was to inject the matter into human volunteers under complicated and carefully controlled conditions and see if they developed colds. It took time and each test series cost about $1,000.

The new technique is still complicated and takes at least a day, but it can be done in the laboratory.

Dr. Ward indicated he already has learned new things about the common cold with his Geiger counters and radio active phosphorous. He is not ready to talk about them yet because he hasn't had time for enough experiments to convince him they are true.

U. S. Rejects "Deals" To End War

"We want peace—open up the square," they cried.

Mounted police charged their ranks and scattered them but they reformed again and again as the brawl swirled through the streets of downtown Manhattan.

Fists flew at times and several injuries were reported. At least one window was smashed.

13 Marchers Arrested

Thirteen of the marchers were arrested, most of them charged with disorderly conduct or assault.

Two sign-waving demonstrators were plucked by police from light poles after fire department ladders were called in.

An estimated 10,000 persons making their way peacefully along sidewalks in the Union Square area were thrown into a turmoil by the fighting.

The demonstrators shouted "Cossack" at the mounted police who charged down on them. Cossacks were the fierce horsemen who served the Russian czars.

The New York Labor Conference for Peace, which sponsored the forbidden rally, later released the text of a telegram it said was sent to Mayor William O'Dwyer.

"Brutality" Charged

It accused mounted police of trampling "on the advocates of peace—men and women, bystanders and participants."

It charged that police clubbed the marchers, adding:

"Mr. Mayor, it was quite a spectacle of brutality and blood."

The marchers were to have gathered to hear speeches by Negro Singer Paul Robeson and Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, chairman of the Peace Information Center.

The center has led in the distribution of peace petitions calling for the outlawing of the atom bomb Government officials have called the petitions Communist-inspired.

Action Viewed As Last Major U.N. Pullback

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 3 (AP) — American troops today fell back on the central front to make the Naktong River the United Nations defense barrier for much of the north and west sides of the Korean beachhead.

Field dispatches said the general withdrawal was expected to be the last major U. N. pullback of the war. Battle-ready U. S. Marines streamed ashore and started immediately for the hard-pressed lines. Ahead of them were Army reinforcements which had arrived earlier.

However, on the east coast, the Reds were chased out of the battered city of Yongdok by the South Korean Third Division Wednesday under the covering fire of a U. S. cruiser and destroyers.

A Far East naval communique said the South Korean counterattack carried three miles north of Yongdok, northeast anchor of the twisting front.

One of the critical sectors was west of Pusan, the main supply port at the Southeastern tip of Korea. Fighting raged only 40 miles to the west of the city.

The general withdrawal, however, apparently did not extend this far south on the western side of the box-shaped beachhead.

Latest field reports said Army tanks and troops were engaged in bloody fighting after halting a powerful Korean Communist thrust 40 miles west of Pusan with a counter-attack. The Americans drove within three to five miles of Chinju before returning to their positions, an Eighth Army communique said today.

Planned Withdrawal

The general withdrawal—planned and orderly—began two days ago. Its aim apparently was to relieve the heavy pressure of 10 Red divisions—possibly 100,000 troops—until fresh Army and newly-arrived Marine units can get into combat.

The Reds were pressing hard all along the shrunken U. N. defense perimeter which outnumbered American and South Korean forces have been holding. The line was marked by flaming towns and villages from Chinju, 55 miles west of Pusan, on the south, to Yongdok on the east coast 80 miles north of the key port.

The Eighth Army communique said South Korean troops had fought "to the town" of Yongdok and were pursuing the retreating Reds.

For two days, the Americans and South Koreans have been pulling back behind the Naktong River on the north. They gave up their old line from Hamchang at the northwest corner of the box to Andong, eastward toward Yongdok. The Americans on the north-south front just below Hamchang withdrew from Sangju eastward to new positions behind the river. Wednesday, they did the same on the Kumchon front, abandoning the town 30 miles northwest of Taegu.

Senate Group Votes 10% Tax On TV Sets, Home Freezers

Truman Dealt Political Blow By Mo. Voters

By International News Service

President Truman was dealt a stunning political blow Wednesday when administration-backed Emery W. Allison, of Rolla, Mo., went down to defeat in his quest for the Missouri senatorial nomination in the Democratic primary race.

Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., St. Louis attorney, slanted his campaign directly at presidential interference with the slogan "Let the people pick their senator." On the basis of almost complete returns Hennings had 179,150 votes in Tuesday's primary to 174,231 for Allison.

On the Republican ticket, the Missouri nomination went to incumbent Sen. Donnell, who easily defeated three political unknowns. Donnell has been marked down for defeat by labor in the fall general election.

In Kansas balloting, the voters slapped down candidates backed by former Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican 1936 candidate for president.

Gov. Frank Carlson held a 13,000-vote lead over his lone opponent, Landon-backed Harry W. Colmery of Topeka.

In the gubernatorial race, Edward F. Arn, supported by Gov. Carlson, gained an even more decisive victory over Landon's former secretary Willard Mayberry, an Elkhart, Kan., publisher. Paul Aiken led the Democratic race.

Vishinsky In Moscow

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 2 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, whose movements have been a mystery in recent months, was reported back in Moscow today.

The Prague Socialist newspaper Svobodne Slovo said he attended a reception there yesterday.

Excise Slash Bill Dealt Death Blow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted today to put a 10 per cent tax on television sets and home freezers.

The television manufacturer's tax would bring in $42,000,000 a year, the home freezers another $8,000,000.

This was the first action on President Truman's emergency tax bill, a plan to increase federal taxes by $5,000,000,000 to help pay for the vast arms program.

The committee did not get around to Mr. Truman's proposal to boost income taxes, although Secretary of the Treasury Snyder urged it should act promptly.

Excise Cut Bill Junked

But it did agree to junk a bill which would have cut $1,010,000,000 in excise cuts. This, however, was a mere formality. The death of the excise tax bill—which would have cut the taxes on jewelry, movie tickets, furs, luggage and cosmetics —had been long predicted.

In addition to taxing television sets and home freezers, the committee voted to pick up an additional $5,000,000 a year by increasing the tax on slot machines in operation. The tax would go up from $100 to $150. for each machine.

Before the taxes become effective they must be approved by the full Senate and the House.

Another attempt to get a tax increase failed. This was a drive to get immediate action on an excess profits tax, aimed at war "profiteering." But its backers said the fight had just begun.

"Temporary Setback"

The first test came on a bill dealing with the renegotiations of defense contracts. Rep. Mills (D-Ark) proposed that a study of excessive profits—and their taxation — be made a part of the renegotiation procedure.

The House Ways and Means Committee turned him down, 15 to 8.

"The vote is nothing but a temporary setback," Mills told reporters later.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder asked Congress to act promptly on President Truman's proposed $5,000,000,000 tax boost. He warned that another proposal—increasing taxes by more billions—may be expected soon.

Chairman George (D-Ga), of the Senate Finance Committee, predicted that Mr. Truman's tax proposal will be passed speedily and "substantially as submitted."

Two Anti-Red Bills Submitted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—A bill which would outlaw the Communist Party, and another which would require all Communists to register as agents of a foreign government were introduced in the House today.

The new measures were offered just as a move was started to bring the controversial Mundt-Nixon Communist curbing bill to the House floor for action.

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) submitted the proposal which would make it unlawful to belong or to be affiliated with the Communist Party. Violators could be imprisoned for 10 years and fined $10,000.

The proposal to require Communists to register as foreign agents came from Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) He is a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee which has been considering the Mundt-Nixon bill.

Timid Cat Rescued Twice From Birds

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 2 (AP)—The Humane Society here has answered a call to protect a cat from birds.

On Monday the cat was on a rooftop. three birds were making dive bomber passes at it.

Yesterday the timid animal was marooned on the crossbar of a telephone pole—possibly chased there by a sparrow. A single bird continued to make sweeping forays at the tabby's head.

Then someone called the Humane Society. A lineman rescued the bird-pecked cat.

du Pont Leads H-Bomb Search

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The United States appeared today to be gearing itself to produce a hydrogen bomb without slackening — perhaps even while increasing — its pace on A-bombs.

A major segment of the job was assigned to the du Pont Company, already experts in making plutonium which goes into the present atomic weapons.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced a move which — while the AEC did not say so — could mean that the commission is going to make large quantities of tritium, a possible ingredient of the H-bomb, without curtailing the production of plutonium.

Today the AEC announced it had appointed the du Pont Company to design, construct and operate some brand new plants of "advanced design." These would be for the production of materials "which can be used either for weapons or for fuels potentially useful for power purposes."

Truman Conference

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 3 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) tomorrow.

Russia Violates U.N. Obligations, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson today accused Russia of violating its United Nations obligations by stalling when it should be working for peace in Korea.

The charge, was made informally and in the course of chiding Russia's U. N. delegate, Jakob A. Malik, was Acheson's main reaction to Malik's performance at yesterday's session of the U. N. Security Council.

Aides said that what Acheson had in mind was:

(1) Malik's insistence on placing the issue of China's membership in the U. N. ahead of a pending resolution on the Korean crisis and

(2) Malik's claims that the United States is the aggressor in Korea even though the United Nations has already branded the North Korean Communists as the aggressors.

Speaking at a news conference, Acheson also made clear that the United States is considering supplying arms to the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa. This would strengthen the island against a possible Communist assault.

Loan To Spain Opposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today came out strongly against a Senate proposal to give Spain a $100,000,000 loan.

He told a news conference that if any such loan is justified, the Export-Import Bank has the money on hand to make it.

Here Acheson came into conflict with the Senate.

It passed an amendment yesterday which would, in effect, deprive the bank from using its own judgment on the wisdom of such a loan.

The amendment — to a $35,000,000,000 appropriations bill—said the Marshall Plan administrator "is authorized and directed" to make a loan to Spain. The amendment still must get the approval of the House.

Slashes Throat And Saves Life

The story came out today after the brother, Roald Lutness returned to his farm from a hospital.

Roald found it difficult to breathe after a baseball hit his throat. He asked his sister-in-law, who once trained three months to be a nurse, to operate with a jackknife.

Bernard Lutness handed his wife a knife he had been using to scrape paint from building on their Northeastern Montana farm. She probed with the knife but didn't find the windpipe.

Bernard got the paring knife, which had been sharpened for chicken killing. He probed with it and found the windpipe. Mrs. Lutness inserted a small rubber tube from a syringe in the opening.

The three drove 25 miles to Plentywood in less than 20 minutes.

Dr. A. N. Pronin replaced the rubber tube with a metal tube. He complimetned the amateur surgeons, saying the incision was in the right place and only one-fourth inch longer than he would have made it.

Six Killed In Freak Railroad Accident

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 2(AP)—Six persons were killed and 11 injured yesterday in a freak railroad accident on a steep grade between the ancient Inca ruins of Machupicchu and the city of Cuzco.

A railroad engineer, finding that his locomotive could not pull the entire train up the steep grade, ordered the last two cars—one a passenger and the other carrying baggage—to be unhitched.

A brakeman unhitched to cars, but neglected to put on the brakes. The cars shot dizzily backwards down the hill and jumped the track at a curve, plunging into the Urubamba River.

Mysterious Cloud

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP) —Hundreds of persons today observed a strange cloud which changed color in hues of green, red, orange and blue as it moved seaward, against prevailing winds.

The phenomena was observed for about 20 minutes.

Profits Of Corporations Hit Record-Breaking Pace

NEW YORK, Aug. (AP) — Corporation profits are running at record rate, with the second quarter total 43 per cent higher than a year ago.

This upward surge developed without the stimulus of war which did not boost prices, sales and earnings until the start of the second half of the year.

A compilation made today by the Associated Press of the earnings of 450 corporations in all fields of business showed these totals:

1950 second quarter $1,625,040,257; 1949 second quarter $1,132,763,017; increase: 43 per cent.

1950 first half $2,865,306,259; 1949 first half $2,319,616,453; increase: 24 per cent.

Thep ercentage of gain over a year ago reflects the quickie recession during the first half of 1949 which, of course, makes today's earnings look even bigger by comparison.

But the absolute dollar totals during the second quarter this year are running at an annual rate that would top any other full year.

Profits made an all-time high in 1948, and the total last year was only 2.6 per cent below that peak, an Associated Press compilation showed.

"Case Dismissed"

WESTBORO, Mass., Aug. 2 (AP)—Pvt. William Gamble, Worcester, spent part of his furlough fishing here and was picked up by a game warden for having short bass.

He told Judge Francis X. Reilly today that he had orders to go to Korea.

"Case dismissed," Judge Reilly said.

Hopkins Scientist Chases Cold With Geiger Counter

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP) — A Johns Hopkins scientist today reported he and his associates have discovered a new and important tool in the long search for something that will prevent or cure the common cold.

Using a Geiger counter and radio active phosphorous from the atomic plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., they have found out how to tell whether a half-hatched chicken egg has a cold.

Dr. Thomas G. Ward, of the Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, told of the discovery in the American Journal of Hygiene.

It is important because so far there has been no way of detecting simply whether a laboratory specimen contained the cold virus.

The only way to find out was to inject the matter into human volunteers under complicated and carefully controlled conditions and see if they developed colds. It took time and each test series cost about $1,000.

The new technique is still complicated and takes at least a day, but it can be done in the laboratory.

Dr. Ward indicated he already has learned new things about the common cold with his Geiger counters and radio active phosphorous. He is not ready to talk about them yet because he hasn't had time for enough experiments to convince him they are true.

Labor-Industry Conference Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Many people in Washington are convinced that in the labor-management field the events immediately after Pearl Harbor are about to repeat themselves.

That means:

1. A labor-management conference.

2. A no-strike pledge, at least in defense production.

3. Creation of some kind of war labor board to handle disputes.

The labor-management conference is already being talked about by some labor leaders and some government officials. Secretary of Labor Tobin is reported to favor the idea. The attitude of business leaders might depend on the circumstances at the time such a conference was called.

President Truman raised the whole question of war labor disputes in his economic message to Congress last week. He said that labor should join with management in the "further consolidation of industrial peace," and that "work stoppages in vital industries are something we simply can not afford under current conditions."

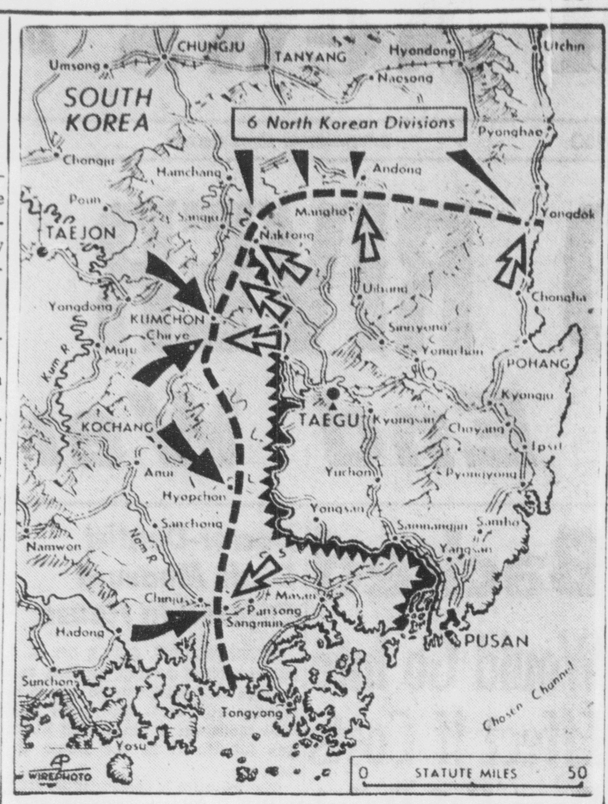
The no-strike pledge is almost sure to come—at least from the AFL and CIO.

U. S. Will Use Troops To Keep German Peace

FRANKFORT, Germany, Aug. 2 (AP)—The U. S. will use troops if necessary to quell any Communist outbursts of violence or sabotage in West Germany, a high American official said today.

He emphasized "we are not threatening the use of troops, but we are not excluding their use."

The American official, who declined to be identified, was replying to renewed Communist threats to resist openly the Allied western powers.



THE KOREAN SCENE — Sawtooth line following the course of the winding Naktong River would be the next major defense line for American troops if Korean Communist pressure continues to push them back. The Naktong is already a defense line for the South Koreans where it winds across the northern front running westward from Andong. Six North Korean divisions are reported on this front. Black arrows indicate heaviest Communist pressure with open arrows designating heaviest concentrations of defending troops.

Action Viewed

How far south the withdrawal carried was not clear either in field dispatches or the Eighth Army communique. The communique indicated, however, it might be down to the point where the Naktong bends eastward toward Samnangjin north of Pusan. It said "highway bridges have been destroyed at strategic points on the roads leading into the friendly areas northeast of Chinju."

Gen. MacArthur's war summary early today conceded the "main enemy effort continued" on the Chinju-Pusan axis, the front about 40 miles west of Pusan. Field dispatches said casualties were heavy on both sides.

The summary located the fighting 13 miles east of Chinju, but apparently later field reports put it 10 miles east of that coastal city west of Pusan.

Front dispatches said the American forces built around battered fragments of the 24th Division and reinforcements from Okinawa launched two counterattacks led by Sherman tanks.

24 Arrested In Gambling Raids

LEONARDSTOWN, Md., Aug. 2 (AP) — More than 20 state police staged county-wide gambling raids in St. Mary's County today.

Twenty-four persons were arrested.

Taking part was State's Attorney John H. P. Briscoe, whose office had been laying the groundwork for the raids for six months.

The raiders were led by Capt. George E. Davidson of state police headquarters in Pikesville.

Arrests were made in establishments in Lexington Park, Hollywood and Mechanicsville.

Davidson said additional arrests will be made.

He said that two "numbers" headquarters were raided and "boxes full of lottery slips" were seized. They indicated play handled by one of the headquarters topped more than $5,000 a day, he reported.

The captain said that undercover operatives had visited gambling casinos and obtained information which led to the arrests of five persons. He said roulette, dice, blackjack and other gambling games were played in the casinos—one at Great Mills and another at Lexington Park.

County police authorities did not take part in the raids.

Separate raiding parties were led by State Police Capt. John H. Dowd and W. H. Weber.

Cooker Explodes; Ham Goes Wham!

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 2 (AP)—Something went amiss for a miss, the pot flipped its lid and the ham went wham!

Attractive Shirley Mackie, 5, was left by her mother to mind the pressure cooker with instructions to turn it off when a bell rang. No bell.

The stove was wrecked, a window broken and bits of ham plastered over the walls. Fire Captain Joe Gomez said if Shirley had been in the room she would have been killed.

Tire Prices Boosted By General Company

AKRON, O., Aug. 2 (AP)—General Tire & Rubber Co. today increased the price of passenger and farm tractor tires by five per cent and truck tires by seven and one-half per cent.

It was the third price boost in the tire industry since May. General is the fifth largest tire manufacturer and other companies are expected to announce similar increases.

Senate Rule Change To Halt Debate Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Sen. S. Morse (R-Ore) and Humphrey (D-Minn) today proposed that the Senate amend its rules to choke off debate by a majority vote by the senators voting.

Morse told the Senate that the resolution was an important defense measure. He explained it would guarantee to the American people during the present emergency "that a successful filibuster can't be conducted in the Senate."

Md. Progressives Break With Wallace

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Progressive Party in Maryland is for an end to Korean fighting and for recognition of Red China in the United Nations.

In adopting a resolution to that effect, the party broke with Henry Wallace, who was the 1948 presidential nominee of the Progressives.

Wallace said recently that "I hold no brief for the past actions of either the United States or Russia, but when my country is at war, and the United Nations sanctions that war, I am on the side of my country and the United Nations."

Cooker Explodes; Ham Goes Wham!

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 2 (AP)—Something went amiss for a miss, the pot flipped its lid and the ham went wham!

Attractive Shirley Mackie, 5, was left by her mother to mind the pressure cooker with instructions to turn it off when a bell rang. No bell.

The stove was wrecked, a window broken and bits of ham plastered over the walls. Fire Captain Joe Gomez said if Shirley had been in the room she would have been killed.

Tire Prices Boosted By General Company

AKRON, O., Aug. 2 (AP)—General Tire & Rubber Co. today increased the price of passenger and farm tractor tires by five per cent and truck tires by seven and one-half per cent.

It was the third price boost in the tire industry since May. General is the fifth largest tire manufacturer and other companies are expected to announce similar increases.

Senate Rule Change To Halt Debate Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Sen. S. Morse (R-Ore) and Humphrey (D-Minn) today proposed that the Senate amend its rules to choke off debate by a majority vote by the senators voting.

Morse told the Senate that the resolution was an important defense measure. He explained it would guarantee to the American people during the present emergency "that a successful filibuster can't be conducted in the Senate."

Md. Progressives Break With Wallace

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Progressive Party in Maryland is for an end to Korean fighting and for recognition of Red China in the United Nations.

In adopting a resolution to that effect, the party broke with Henry Wallace, who was the 1948 presidential nominee of the Progressives.

Wallace said recently that "I hold no brief for the past actions of either the United States or Russia, but when my country is at war, and the United Nations sanctions that war, I am on the side of my country and the United Nations."

Clark Seeks House Seat

A petition for House of Delegates on the Democratic ticket was filed Tuesday by Leslie J. Clark, Cumberland and Lonaconing attorney.

Clark was graduated from Central High School, Lonaconing, in 1933, from Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., in 1936.

In 1939, he was graduated from the University of Maryland Law School, Baltimore, and passed the state bar examination, ranking fifth. He was admitted to practice October 5, 1939.

Clark assisted in preparing the Maryland Annotations to the Restatement of the Law of Trusts.

He was inducted in the Army as a private September 5, 1941 and served as an enlisted man until January 7, 1943, when he received a commisssion as a second lieutenant in the Anti-Aircraft Artillery.

Clark served as aide to Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Harriman for two years and was discharged March 23, 1946, as a captain. He is commanding officer of the 372nd Military Police Escort Guard Company, Organized Army Reserve, which is located in Lonaconing.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Clark, Robbin Street, Lonaconing, he is unmarried, and is a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Lonaconing.

He is vice president of the Young Democrats Club of Allegany County and is serving as judge advocate of the State Department of the American Legion.

Clark is a member of the executive committee of the Georges Creek Democrats Club, Lonaconing; the Allegany County, Maryland State and American Bar associations; James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion, Cumberland Voiture No. 164, 40 and 8; Reserve Officers Association, and Lonaconing Rotary Clubs.

Some 16 million Americans like to bowl.

Ewald Ruehl Is House Candidate

W. Ewald Reuhl, Park Heights, has announced that he will run for House of Delegates on the Democratic ticket.

Orchids to Winchell.

Yes, sir, Walter Winchell has just completed 25 years as a columnist and it's a big event in the newspaper business.

Winchell has had more news beats and dished out more scoops than the ice cream concessions on a busy day at Coney Island.

The many colorful words and phrases he has coined have enriched our language. And he is the first man in history to have a direct wire to the stork.

In fact, many a celebrity doesn't know whether he is to be married, divorced, or a father until he's read Winchell.

In addition to his column and radio programs, Walter has myriad other activities and interests. He is the only man in the land who is busier than Arthur Godfrey.

He has headed many worthwhile causes, the latest and greatest being the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Winchell is a born newspaper man. The day the stork visited the Winchell household he delivered a rather bulky bundle from heaven. That was because in addition to Walter, it also contained a typewriter.

Russia's Return To UN Creates Fresh Problems

On balance, Russia's decision to return to the UN Security Council is probably good news. It will certainly create fresh problems for the United States and the UN, and one would be stupid not to feel apprehension as to what this move may portend. But Russia would be creating fresh problems in any case. Within the UN, she is obliged to observe certain amenities.

It is also true that Russia's return has some of the aspects of a defeat for her. Since the Russians left the Security Council in January and then proceeded to withdraw from dozens of other UN agencies, they have been proclaiming defiantly that they would never return until Red China was seated in the Security Council. They are now eating those words. They would not be eating them if our prompt and firm action on Korea had not taken advantage of their absence.

But there can be little doubt that the Russians are coming back to stir up trouble. Perhaps they are about to push the button for aggression in another part of the world, and want to be on hand to halt the UN machinery by a veto.

There are also various legal dodges they can try, aided by the fact that the presidency of the Security Council passes to Russia during August. One would be for Jakob A. Malik, as president, to rule that Nationalist China is not entitled to sit. Whether such a ruling would require seven or only five votes to defeat it is a fine procedural issue. Whether seven votes could be mustered is doubtful.

But Russia's return does hold out some hope, slight though it may be, of finding some way to end the Korean fighting.

United Nations Force

It appears that a genuine United Nations fighting force will be developed in Korea if the fighting there continues long enough for the mechanical processes of gathering the force together. It further appears that the fighting is quite likely to continue that long. The number of nations which have promised to send troops is large enough to give the forces in Korea, when the promised troops have been delivered, the character of an actual United Nations police army.

The experience in Korea already has made it abundantly clear that the UN is not an effective organization without armed force at its disposal. Its cease fire order in Korea was sheer waste of breath. It was plain from the outset that the guns could be silenced only by the weight of superior force. It also has become obvious that the aggressor force has gained a tremendous advantage by making use of the time needed to assemble police forces. Before United Nations strength can be ready in Korea the aggressors probably will be in physical possession of virtually all of their objectives, and the UN task will be not simply to enforce a cease fire, as it would have been at the beginning, but to restore the situation which existed before the fighting began. The second job is much harder than the first.

In both the immediate and the long range future, these conditions of Korea are likely to be repeated whenever the similar need for UN police action recurs. When there is a real fighting threat to world peace, superior armed force will be needed to quell it. Every day and hour of delay in getting the police force into action will increase the difficulties of its job. From the Korea experience, then, all of the United Nations ought to learn that the international body needs force, and needs to have it instantly ready for employment.

A Has Been?

It would be a mistake to underestimate the ability of Harry Bridges, left wing boss of the Longshoremen, to get out of trouble in the present instance. But he is in more hot water right now than in many a year.

Bridges is now out on bail after being convicted of perjuring himself by denying his communist affiliations. He was tossed, literally and figuratively, off the platform several days ago at a meeting of CIO Longshoremen on the West Coast. In former times Harry Bridges would have had the run of meetings like this.

During the month the U. S. has been at war at the behest of the UN Security Council, the stock of Harry Bridges has been falling steadily among his old companions. Bridges, an officer of the World Maritime Federation, a communist front group, had been shouting the federation line which, in addition to the mealy-mouthed plea for peace, demanded a boycott of all ships carrying supplies to Korea. The Longshoremen would have none of this line and gave Harry the heave-ho.

From the East Coast and from Hawaii come heartening reassurances that the bulk of the CIO dockside unions will continue to load the ships and get on with the business of preparing to defend the country. Bridges lists fewer and fewer friends as the enormous falsity of the Soviet "peace" campaign becomes more apparent.

Crucial Battle

A crucial battle of the Korean war is going forward hour after hour along the curving front that describes something like a rough quarter-circle around the supply port of Pusan. It is crucial not because it will decide the outcome of the war, which this nation must and will win, but because it will determine whether or not American troops keep a bridgehead on the mainland.

It is of the utmost importance that a bridgehead be kept, if that can be done. To hold it now will save time, money, lives later on. That is why General MacArthur has risked three of the four divisions he had in Japan—and why they have orders now to stand their ground and fight it out. The stakes are high, so high that this great gamble had to be taken.

The North Korean commander, whoever he is, also knows that it is now or never. He is "maintaining the pressure" all along the line, as the releases say. He has already accepted heavy losses to gain what he has won and he is prepared to throw in every ounce of strength available in order to push the Americans off the peninsula.

American troops are fighting a fanatical enemy. They are holding now after carrying out a long, difficult, painful, delaying operation. Fresh American troops—the first to arrive directly from the United States—are joining in the fighting. Our hearts are with them.

Sometimes on an August day one wonders if the sun really is 93 million miles away.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Accidents In Childhood

LAST YEAR'S accidents were responsible for two-thirds of all the deaths of school-age children. This is shocking, more so when we consider that the modern tot is no longer subjected to the dangers of the fatal illnesses that carried off so many in the past. Furthermore, the life expectancy of our youngsters has increased by leaps and bounds and the majority should live to a ripe old age.

Accidents killed more boys and girls from 1 to 14 years of age than the combined total of the nine diseases most frequently producing death in children. Statistics show that three times as many died from this source as from pneumonia and seven times as many as from tuberculosis. Accidents were responsible for 12 times as many mortalities as polio. This is ironical considering the amount of time and effort spent for the prevention and cure of this malady.

But this is not all. Between one-third and one-half of all cases of incapacitating crippling result from accidents. This is the penalty we pay for the privilege of living in a mechanized world. The pertinent question is: Can we have our cake and eat it too? Many believe we can and cite as proof the remarkable reduction in accidents when campaigns are waged properly. Carelessness, one of the most important of all causes, is stressed. It is possible that in the future we will learn to respect the products of our civilization and treat them accordingly.

The problem is different with infants and young children because they do not understand, which brings the responsibility back to the parents. Most mishaps can be avoided if fathers and mothers recognize the hazards confronting youngsters. For example, many tikes have fallen from open windows, porches, and high stairs. Every one who has ever read a newspaper knows this, yet only a few homes and apartments have done anything to avert this type of casualty. In addition, there are scores of potentially dangerous gadgets and tools that should be removed to a safe place. Repairs often are needed to assure safety but frequently are left until it is too late.

Automobile accidents are the most common cause of death and disability. Because we cannot keep our little ones penned up we are forced to rely to a great extent upon the driver. Children learn by example; hence every adult should serve as a model whenever crossing the street. Safety must be handled like a religion and the rules repeated over and over again until every one is thoroughly indoctrinated.

Burning from fire, boiling water, and explosions also is high on the list of causes of death and among school children generally ranks second to motor vehicle accidents. Many schools are doing a marvelous job of teaching the ABCs of this peril. The more our boys and girls know about the prevention and control of fire, the less likely they are to make errors along this line. The same could be said about handling firearms. Poisoning is a problem of a different sort, as far as youngsters are concerned. In most instances, the material has been left within reach or placed in bottles to be mistaken for milk or other beverages.

MacArthur Bans Newspaper Criticism Of "Command Decisions And Conduct Of Troops"; Censorship Made It Difficult To Report Japanese Occupation

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It is important that the American public know the rules of news censorship laid down by General MacArthur for covering the Korean war.

Theoretically, there is no censorship, since newsmen are not required to show their dispatches to army officers. However, General MacArthur has issued a definite directive to newsmen which is highly important and which, as reported by the Columbia Broadcasting System, states that "criticism of command decisions or the conduct of allied soldiers on the battlefield will not be tolerated."

Also significant is the fact that this new directive was issued one day after Homer Bigart of the New York Herald Tribune cabled a dispatch analyzing the conduct of U. S. troops, reporting that they were untrained, and that top officers had to remain with them when under fire to keep them from breaking. Bigart reported that this was the reason why there were such heavy casualties among officers.

The fact is that MacArthur had the largest segment of the U. S. Army under him in Japan, and failure to train troops is, of course, a direct reflection on him and his chief commander, Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker.

Army Once Welcomed Criticism

The new MacArthur directive barring newspaper criticism is in direct contradiction to the censorship rules laid down for newspapers in this country during World War II. At that time both the Army and Navy agreed that criticism was healthy, important, in fact, necessary. It is also in violation of Woodrow Wilson's famous statement in World War I: "We do not need less criticism, but more. It is hoped that criticism will be constructive, but better unfair criticism than autocratic repression."

Perhaps if there had been more newspaper scrutiny and criticism of the entire defense setup, including tanks and our easy training schedule for American troops in Japan, things might now be better in Korea.

Criticism of the U. S. military in Japan, however, has always been difficult. MacArthur just did not tolerate it. While he had no censorship rules as such, he made life difficult for the newsman who tried to report the full story of the Japanese occupation.

For instance, here is a secret cable sent by MacArthur to Washington in 1946 in which he proposed barring certain newspapers. While few would disagree with MacArthur about barring the Daily Worker, it is hard to understand his reasons for barring such staid newspapers as the New York Herald Tribune, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Christian Science Monitor. Nevertheless his cable read:

"CINCAFPAC, Tokyo—While continuing my doubts as to the advisability of the contemplated trip, in view of the insistence of the War Department, I will withdraw my objection. I would like to have an opportunity to pass upon those contemplated for selection before their invitation is accomplished. I believe the list should not include actual writers but should be limited to publishers and editors and should not include those connected with papers of known hostility to the occupation. Such papers are the Christian Science Monitor, Herald Tribune, Chicago Sun, San Francisco Chronicle, PM, Daily Worker and others of this stamp whose articles and editorials have not only been slanted but have approached downright quackery and dishonesty. /Signed/ MacArthur."

This policy of ousting independent newsmen continued right up to the Korean crisis. As late as June 12, London Times correspondent Frank Hawley was ordered out of Japan merely because he reported what was a well-established fact—namely, that a MacArthur-inspired ban on Japanese demonstrations was unconstitutional.

Oklahoma's Aftermaths

The people of Oklahoma have now shown what they think of speculating senators by defeating Sen. "Cotton Elmer" Thomas in the Democratic primaries. They also came within a hair's breadth of kicking out Congressman Victor Wickersham for his salary finaglings, and doubtless will finish the job in the November elections.

Meanwhile Senator Thomas and his broker, Dyke Cullum, are convinced that their telephones are tapped. After the last Merry-Go-Round story was published telling of Collum's soya bean oil purchases and his friendship for the Senator's secretary, Joycette Jones, there were immediate frantic phone calls.

Senator Thomas phoned Dyke Cullum; Joycette Jones also phoned Collum; and Mrs. Cullum hit the ceiling. On top of learning that her husband had been going around with Miss Jones, a beautiful Indian princess, she also did not like the fact that Dyke had received a post card from a lady in New York which read: "Will see you at the Waldorf on the 15th. (Signed) EE."

Mr. Cullum had a hard time explaining this one. At first he had no explanation. But after considerable brooding he finally remarked to Mrs. Cullum:

"I know that dirty - - - Drew Pearson sent me that post card just to cause trouble in my home."

Whereupon Mrs. Cullum, a wise and patient lady, remarked:

"Dyke, dear, it isn't you that Drew Pearson is after, it's the Senator. He's not interested in you. He just believes that people who are elected to high public office should not be using that office for their own personal gain."

Dyke thought a minute about this, then told Mrs. Cullum: "All right, if Senator Thomas is defeated, I won't have another thing to do with him."

Since then Thomas has been defeated. Meanwhile, Mr. Cullum has promised to buy Mrs. Cullum a new fall outfit, so perhaps all's well that ends well.

Senator Ken Wherry, Nebraska Republican, is pulling strings to have Washington Police Lieutenant Roy Blick promoted to inspector. This promotion will be Blick's reward for opening secret police files on sex unfortunates for Wherry's examination. . . . Gossip-mongers are spreading the word that Bill Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is so ill he won't be able to direct the Democratic campaign this fall. The fact is that Boyle is rapidly recovering from a slight infection and is due back at his desk within two weeks.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

The Prize And The Risk

WASHINGTON

SINCE the Korean attack, the Soviet rulers have suddenly found themselves in an astonishingly favorable military position. But they know that this favorable position will not last indefinitely. The Soviet reaction to those twin facts will largely determine the course of future events.

Now that the United States, having no honorable or rational alternative, is fighting in Korea, the Soviet rulers have been confronted with a new, and almost certainly unexpected, situation. The inadequate existing American conventional forces have been wholly committed in Korea. And throughout the rest of the non-Soviet world there is a yawning military vacuum.

The case of Japan provides perhaps the most striking illustration of the nature of this vacuum. The greatest concentration of American military power outside the United States has been in Japan. Yet the simple fact is that, since Korea, the rulers in the Kremlin can quite rationally hope to gain control of Japan without committing any Russian military forces at all.

Uprising In Japan Easy

On the one hand, since Korea, the only military strength on the Japanese islands consists of a single American division; American air units wholly committed in Korea, and a decentralized and therefore impotent Japanese police force. On the other hand, the Kremlin controls the Japanese Communist party, which has been ordered to prepare for "direct action," and which runs the vital transport and telecommunications unions; 300,000 Japanese prisoners in Siberia, most of whom have received premilitary training, with at least a division and probably more organized and equipped for combat; and the indoctrinated Japanese prisoners already returned to Japan.

Thus it would be remarkably easy for the Kremlin to arrange a "peoples' uprising" in Japan, against the "white chauvinists and American imperialists." While the remaining American occupation forces and the local police had their hands full dealing with sabotage, a "peoples' army" of Japanese prisoners could be landed in the northern island of Hokkaido from the Russian-held port of Sakhalin. And it would be virtually impossible to disengage the American forces in Korea in time to deal with this new threat, particularly if the Chinese Communists simultaneously tied down the 7th Fleet with an attack on Formosa.

This is a nightmare. But it is a nightmare which is taken with grim seriousness by those in close touch with the situation, especially since there have been intelligence reports that the Soviets were establishing a "Japanese peoples' government" in North Korea, and the fact that the Kremlin has this sort of capability even in American-held Japan merely serves to underline the tempting military opportunities which exist right around the borders of the Soviet sphere.

Strength for Weakness

Moreover, the Soviet rulers must certainly be considering carefully one compelling reason for taking further advantage of these opportunities in the near future. This is that the extraordinarily favorable Soviet military situation will not last very long. The United States and its Western allies have now most publicly announced their intention of replacing existing weakness with future strength.

Thus perhaps in two years, perhaps in three, the whole basis of the Soviet world strategy will be undermined. Soviet strategy has been based on a series of demonstrations of Soviet strength and Western weakness, designed to ensure a progressive crumbling of the Western will to resist. When the West is strong, this will no longer be possible.

Moreover, once the West is strong, the Soviet rulers will in turn be faced with the danger of losing control of their vast, unwieldly empire, and ultimately of the Soviet state itself. Thus the whole logic of their situation would seem to compel the Soviet rulers to strike again, and again, to seize vital posi-

"Housekeeping" Took $2 Of $3 Spent In Cold War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Members of Congress are asking what happened to the $50,000,000,000 spent for the "cold war" in the last four years and why more of it wasn't spent for weapons and combat troops.

Senator Johnson of Colorado, Democrat, and members of the House have placed in the "Congressional Record" an explanation which was made by the staff of "U. S. News & World Report" in a lengthy article in a recent issue. The Defense Department has since issued a table of expenditures, but it is based on "obligations" rather than cash payments. This means that a backlog of many millions more was available for aircraft procurement but the money wasn't used.

In brief, the magazine's survey, based on cash outlays for the four fiscal years, shows that "overhead"—often referred to as "military housekeeping"—took $2 out of every $3 spent. To quote from the analysis:

"Two thirds of all military spending has gone for services performed, not for expensive weapons or supplies bought. That includes pay, travel, telephone bills, transportation costs, rents, pensions. . .

No New Ships Ordered

"Only $1 in $7 since the war has been spent on arms of any kind. One in 16 has gone for equipment other than aircraft. Out of $50,000,000,000, about $4,000,000,000 was invested in aircraft, $3,100,000,000 for all other equipment—guns, ships, trucks, radar, new weapons, machinery, and noncombat equipment such as furniture, typewriters and passenger automobiles.

"Spending on combat equipment has been less than enough to replace worn-out items. No new tanks have been bought; only a few World War II left-overs have been remodeled. Buying of new weapons has scarcely begun—most are in the planning or testing stage. No big artillery guns, rifles, machine guns or new naval guns have been purchased. Deadly new 'skysweeper' antiaircraft guns have been developed, but none bought. No new navy ships have been ordered, only a few completed and remodeled. Even the $4,000,000,000 spent on big bombers and fighter planes has not replaced the number of planes worn out during postwar years.

"On weapons alone, spending over four postwar years totaled only $600,000,000. That's less than the amount spent on military travel, half the cost of shipping military freight, and barely twice the amount spent for rent and utilities at military installations. Construction, largely of housing on defense posts, cost half again as much as the total spent on new weapons."

But what did the $50,000,000,000 buy in terms of war strength? The answer is that the number of fighting divisions has dropped from 17 when the "cold war" began in 1946 to 10 divisions now. The amount of combat equipment has grown smaller. Manpower has been cut from 1,891,000 to 1,003,000 men in the Army and the Air Force before the Korean outbreak.

The number of air groups has dropped from 52 to 48. The Air Force and the Navy have bought 8,684 new planes, which is less than the number that wore out in the same four years, cutting the number of planes on hand and in storage from 47,500 to 30,000. Most of the new combat-air-equipment money has gone into big, long-range bombers and fast jet fighters. But output is only at the rate of 215 aircraft a month, compared to 1,350 a month before Pearl Harbor in 1941.

As for the Navy, it has 245 combat ships in operation compared to 291 four years ago. Manpower has been cut from 985,288 to 379,900.

It was "military housekeeping" that took most of the money. About $18,700,000,000 of the $50,000,000,000 went to pay noncombat service men and civilians, with only $6,200,000,000 for the men in the combat units.

Money Not Wasted

Also, of the $8,000,000,000 spent on supplies, only about a fourth went to combat personnel. Various service costs added another $5,500,000,000 and pensions and other outlays took another $3,600,000,000.

"Total charges for housekeeping," says the survey, "may be computed at $34,700,000,000 of the $50,000,000,000. That's more than $2 out of every $3 spent."

The foregoing picture tells why so many more billions have to be spent now. The administration's theory was that a small combat operation—some B-36's and fast fighter planes and a few atomic bombs—would stop the next war almost before it got under way. Nobody figured on the kind of war the other side might have up its sleeve.

But it would be a mistake to say that what was spent was wasted. What was spent sets up a base for expansion and for superimposing more and more combat units. As for readiness to fight, this unfortunately cannot be said to have been achieved. The planners thought of 1952 and 1953 as the years when they would be ready, but the Soviets—wisely or unwisely from their viewpoint, as the future may tell—have alerted America to expand and mobilize now. For it's going to be expensive for America, and the Kermlin may never start any large-scale war.

These Days

Government Accounting

IT is hard to believe, but the accounting system employed by the Government of the United States is antiquated and confused and fails to provide the data. Herbert Hoover once said that the accounting system used by the Post Office was installed by Alexander Hamilton and has not been changed since. The Post Office, once our pride, has in recent years become the most inefficient organ of government.

The Hoover Commission spent much time and effort analyzing the accounts of the government and they proposed a modernized, efficient system that would save billions of dollars. These savings are important today when Congress plans to increase our taxes. Every dollar saved by government is vital to each earner. For instance, the Hoover Commission proposed a unified catalogue of military supplies and equipment, about which I shall write in fuller detail. Suffice it now to say that nothing has been done about it, although such unification can save billions of dollars.

Congress has come up with bills (Senate 3850; House 9038) entitled "Budget and Accounting Procedures of 1950." These bills are being advertised as part of the Hoover Commission's program. They are nothing of the kind. They are government measures which are contrary to a specific recommendation of the Hoover Commission, in the sense that primary accounting and auditing powers are vested in the comptroller-general, an agent of Congress.

The Hoover Commission felt that these functions should be divided; accounting should be the function of the accountant-general in the Treasury, while auditing should be the function of the comptroller-general. It is not good practice for a man to audit his own accounts. Also, the executive should be responsible for its accounts and procedures. As the system is operated today, no single official in the executive branch of government is responsible for the accounting. No private business could operate in such confusion.

The keeping of accounts is most important when so much of our money is being wasted. Our government is too costly and we cannot afford the luxury of such an expensive government while we fight a war. There just is not that much money.

The Secretary of the Treasury and his proper subordinates ought to be responsible for the accounts, which an officer of the Congress should audit. That means authority, responsibility, and control, which is proper procedure. This the bills before Congress do not accomplish.

"The Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report" says:

". . . Progress can be made toward elimination of duplicative and cumbersome procedures and inconsistent and improper application of accounting prinples and practices. As recommended by the Hoover Commission, it should be possible to save money by eliminating the legal requirement that millions of expenditure vouchers and supporting papers be sent to Washington and to eliminate or modify such antiquated fiscal procedures as are required under the obsolete warrant system."

We are moving into a tough situation for all of us which we must take seriously. It is a situation that will cost a lot of money. Nobody can evade the cost of the Korean war and all the troubles that will come from it. We shall be spending billions of dollars—the $10,000,000,000 asked for is only a beginning—and these billions must come out of taxes; that is, out of the earnings of the American people.

Therefore, every dollar spent by the government, not only for war but for any purpose, has to be scrutinized carefully and constantly. Our legitimate business men do not need or want graft, twisted accounts, false descriptions, excessive purchases to make earnings. They cannot possibly make as much goods as they can sell. They do not need to load up the government with excessive inventories of supplies.

Yet, the fact is that government is wildly extravagant and always has been. Money—our money goes down the drainpipe. Maybe it is the habit of extravagance.

The other day, out on the road, I counted eight men engaged in drawing a white line on a road. They had all sorts of equipment. We stopped our car to watch. By no calculation could we discover why more than three men were needed. Maybe it is just a habit with us to waste.

Russia's Return To UN Creates Fresh Problems

On balance, Russia's decision to return to the UN Security Council is probably good news. It will certainly create fresh problems for the United States and the UN, and one would be stupid not to feel apprehension as to what this move may portend. But Russia would be creating fresh problems in any case. Within the UN, she is obliged to observe certain amenities.

It is also true that Russia's return has some of the aspects of a defeat for her. Since the Russians left the Security Council in January and then proceeded to withdraw from dozens of other UN agencies, they have been proclaiming defiantly that they would never return until Red China was seated in the Security Council. They are now eating those words. They would not be eating them if our prompt and firm action on Korea had not taken advantage of their absence.

But there can be little doubt that the Russians are coming back to stir up trouble. Perhaps they are about to push the button for aggression in another part of the world, and want to be on hand to halt the UN machinery by a veto.

There are also various legal dodges they can try, aided by the fact that the presidency of the Security Council passes to Russia during August. One would be for Jakob A. Malik, as president, to rule that Nationalist China is not entitled to sit. Whether such a ruling would require seven or only five votes to defeat it is a fine procedural issue. Whether seven votes could be mustered is doubtful.

But Russia's return does hold out some hope, slight though it may be, of finding some way to end the Korean fighting.

United Nations Force

It appears that a genuine United Nations fighting force will be developed in Korea if the fighting there continues long enough for the mechanical processes of gathering the force together. It further appears that the fighting is quite likely to continue that long. The number of nations which have promised to send troops is large enough to give the forces in Korea, when the promised troops have been delivered, the character of an actual United Nations police army.

The experience in Korea already has made it abundantly clear that the UN is not an effective organization without armed force at its disposal. Its cease fire order in Korea was sheer waste of breath. It was plain from the outset that the guns could be silenced only by the weight of superior force. It also has become obvious that the aggressor force has gained a tremendous advantage by making use of the time needed to assemble police forces. Before United Nations strength can be ready in Korea the aggressors probably will be in physical possession of virtually all of their objectives, and the UN task will be not simply to enforce a cease fire, as it would have been at the beginning, but to restore the situation which existed before the fighting began. The second job is much harder than the first.

In both the immediate and the long range future, these conditions of Korea are likely to be repeated whenever the similar need for UN police action recurs. When there is a real fighting threat to world peace, superior armed force will be needed to quell it. Every day and hour of delay in getting the police force into action will increase the difficulties of its job. From the Korea experience, then, all of the United Nations ought to learn that the international body needs force, and needs to have it instantly ready for employment.

A Has Been?

It would be a mistake to underestimate the ability of Harry Bridges, left wing boss of the Longshoremen, to get out of trouble in the present instance. But he is in more hot water right now than in many a year.

Bridges is now out on bail after being convicted of perjuring himself by denying his communist affiliations. He was tossed, literally and figuratively, off the platform several days ago at a meeting of CIO Longshoremen on the West Coast. In former times Harry Bridges would have had the run of meetings like this.

During the month the U. S. has been at war at the behest of the UN Security Council, the stock of Harry Bridges has been falling steadily among his old companions. Bridges, an officer of the World Maritime Federation, a communist front group, had been shouting the federation line which, in addition to the mealy-mouthed plea for peace, demanded a boycott of all ships carrying supplies to Korea. The Longshoremen would have none of this line and gave Harry the heave-ho.

From the East Coast and from Hawaii come heartening reassurances that the bulk of the CIO dockside unions will continue to load the ships and get on with the business of preparing to defend the country. Bridges lists fewer and fewer friends as the enormous falsity of the Soviet "peace" campaign becomes more apparent.

Crucial Battle

A crucial battle of the Korean war is going forward hour after hour along the curving front that describes something like a rough quarter-circle around the supply port of Pusan. It is crucial not because it will decide the outcome of the war, which this nation must and will win, but because it will determine whether or not American troops keep a bridgehead on the mainland.

It is of the utmost importance that a bridgehead be kept, if that can be done. To hold it now will save time, money, lives later on. That is why General MacArthur has risked three of the four divisions he had in Japan—and why they have orders now to stand their ground and fight it out. The stakes are high, so high that this great gamble had to be taken.

The North Korean commander, whoever he is, also knows that it is now or never. He is "maintaining the pressure" all along the line, as the releases say. He has already accepted heavy losses to gain what he has won and he is prepared to throw in every ounce of strength available in order to push the Americans off the peninsula.

American troops are fighting a fanatical enemy. They are holding now after carrying out a long, difficult, painful, delaying operation. Fresh American troops—the first to arrive directly from the United States—are joining in the fighting. Our hearts are with them.

Sometimes on an August day one wonders if the sun really is 93 million miles away.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Accidents In Childhood

LAST YEAR'S accidents were responsible for two-thirds of all the deaths of school-age children. This is shocking, more so when we consider that the modern tot is no longer subjected to the dangers of the fatal illnesses that carried off so many in the past. Furthermore, the life expectancy of our youngsters has increased by leaps and bounds and the majority should live to a ripe old age.

Accidents killed more boys and girls from 1 to 14 years of age than the combined total of the nine diseases most frequently producing death in children. Statistics show that three times as many died from this source as from pneumonia and seven times as many as from tuberculosis. Accidents were responsible for 12 times as many mortalities as polio. This is ironical considering the amount of time and effort spent for the prevention and cure of this malady.

But this is not all. Between one-third and one-half of all cases of incapacitating crippling result from accidents. This is the penalty we pay for the privilege of living in a mechanized world. The pertinent question is: Can we have our cake and eat it too? Many believe we can and cite as proof the remarkable reduction in accidents when campaigns are waged properly. Carelessness, one of the most important of all causes, is stressed. It is possible that in the future we will learn to respect the products of our civilization and treat them accordingly.

The problem is different with infants and young children because they do not understand, which brings the responsibility back to the parents. Most mishaps can be avoided if fathers and mothers recognize the hazards confronting youngsters. For example, many tikes have fallen from open windows, porches, and high stairs. Every one who has ever read a newspaper knows this, yet only a few homes and apartments have done anything to avert this type of casualty. In addition, there are scores of potentially dangerous gadgets and tools that should be removed to a safe place. Repairs often are needed to assure safety but frequently are left until it is too late.

Automobile accidents are the most common cause of death and disability. Because we cannot keep our little ones penned up we are forced to rely to a great extent upon the driver. Children learn by example; hence every adult should serve as a model whenever crossing the street. Safety must be handled like a religion and the rules repeated over and over again until every one is thoroughly indoctrinated.

Burning from fire, boiling water, and explosions also is high on the list of causes of death and among school children generally ranks second to motor vehicle accidents. Many schools are doing a marvelous job of teaching the ABCs of this peril. The more our boys and girls know about the prevention and control of fire, the less likely they are to make errors along this line. The same could be said about handling firearms. Poisoning is a problem of a different sort, as far as youngsters are concerned. In most instances, the material has been left within reach or placed in bottles to be mistaken for milk or other beverages.

MacArthur Bans Newspaper Criticism Of "Command Decisions And Conduct Of Troops"; Censorship Made It Difficult To Report Japanese Occupation

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It is important that the American public know the rules of news censorship laid down by General MacArthur for covering the Korean war.

Theoretically, there is no censorship, since newsmen are not required to show their dispatches to army officers. However, General MacArthur has issued a definite directive to newsmen which is highly important and which, as reported by the Columbia Broadcasting System, states that "criticism of command decisions or the conduct of allied soldiers on the battlefield will not be tolerated."

Also significant is the fact that this new directive was issued one day after Homer Bigart of the New York Herald Tribune cabled a dispatch analyzing the conduct of U. Bigart reported that this was the reason why there were such heavy casualties among officers.

The fact is that MacArthur had the largest segment of the U. S. Army under him in Japan, and failure to train troops is, of course, a direct reflection on him and his chief commander, Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker.

Army Once Welcomed Criticism

The new MacArthur directive barring newspaper criticism is in direct contradiction to the censorship rules laid down for newspapers in this country during World War II. At that time both the Army and Navy agreed that criticism was healthy, important, in fact, necessary. It is also in violation of Woodrow Wilson's famous statement in World War I: "We do not need less criticism, but more. It is hoped that criticism will be constructive, but better unfair criticism than autocratic repression."

Perhaps if there had been more newspaper scrutiny and criticism of the entire defense setup, including tanks and our easy training schedule for American troops in Japan, things might now be better in Korea.

Criticism of the U. S. military in Japan, however, has always been difficult. MacArthur just did not tolerate it. While he had no censorship rules as such, he made life difficult for the newsman who tried to report the full story of the Japanese occupation.

For instance, here is a secret cable sent by MacArthur to Washington in 1946 in which he proposed barring certain newspapers. While few would disagree with MacArthur about barring the Daily Worker, it is hard to understand his reasons for barring such staid newspapers as the New York Herald Tribune, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Christian Science Monitor. Nevertheless his cable read:

"CINCAFPAC, Tokyo—While continuing my doubts as to the advisability of the contemplated trip, in view of the insistence of the War Department, I will withdraw my objection. I would like to have an opportunity to pass upon those contemplated for selection before their invitation is accomplished. I believe the list should not include actual writers but should be limited to publishers and editors and should not include those connected with papers of known hostility to the occupation. Such papers are the Christian Science Monitor, Herald Tribune, Chicago Sun, San Francisco Chronicle, PM, Daily Worker and others of this stamp whose articles and editorials have not only been slanted but have approached downright quackery and dishonesty. /Signed/ MacArthur."

This policy of ousting independent newsmen continued right up to the Korean crisis. As late as June 12, London Times correspondent Frank Hawley was ordered out of Japan merely because he reported what was a well-established fact—namely, that a MacArthur-inspired ban on Japanese demonstrations was unconstitutional.

Oklahoma's Aftermaths

The people of Oklahoma have now shown what they think of speculating senators by defeating Sen. "Cotton Elmer" Thomas in the Democratic primaries. They also came within a hair's breadth of kicking out Congressman Victor Wickersham for his salary finaglings, and doubtless will finish the job in the November elections.

Meanwhile Senator Thomas and his broker, Dyke Cullum, are convinced that their telephones are tapped. After the last Merry-Go-Round story was published telling of Collum's soya bean oil purchases and his friendship for the Senator's secretary, Joycette Jones, there were immediate frantic phone calls.

Senator Thomas phoned Dyke Cullum; Joycette Jones also phoned Collum; and Mrs. Cullum hit the ceiling. On top of learning that her husband had been going around with Miss Jones, a beautiful Indian princess, she also did not like the fact that Dyke had received a post card from a lady in New York which read: "Will see you at the Waldorf on the 15th. (Signed) EE."

Mr. Cullum had a hard time explaining this one. At first he had no explanation. But after considerable brooding he finally remarked to Mrs. Cullum:

"I know that dirty - - - Drew Pearson sent me that post card just to cause trouble in my home."

Whereupon Mrs. Cullum, a wise and patient lady, remarked:

"Dyke, dear, it isn't you that Drew Pearson is after, it's the Senator. He's not interested in you. He just believes that people who are elected to high public office should not be using that office for their own personal gain."

Dyke thought a minute about this, then told Mrs. Cullum: "All right, if Senator Thomas is defeated, I won't have another thing to do with him."

Since then Thomas has been defeated. Meanwhile, Mr. Cullum has promised to buy Mrs. Cullum a new fall outfit, so perhaps all's well that ends well.

Merry-Go-Round

Senator Ken Wherry, Nebraska Republican, is pulling strings to have Washington Police Lieutenant Roy Blick promoted to inspector. This promotion will be Blick's reward for opening secret police files on sex unfortunates for Wherry's examination. . . . Gossip-mongers are spreading the word that Bill Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is so ill he won't be able to direct the Democratic campaign this fall. The fact is that Boyle is rapidly recovering from a slight infection and is due back at his desk within two weeks.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

The Prize And The Risk

WASHINGTON

SINCE the Korean attack, the Soviet rulers have suddenly found themselves in an astonishingly favorable military position. But they know that this favorable position will not last indefinitely. The Soviet reaction to those twin facts will largely determine the course of future events.

Now that the United States, having no honorable or rational alternative, is fighting in Korea, the Soviet rulers have been confronted with a new, and almost certainly unexpected, situation. The inadequate existing American conventional forces have been wholly committed in Korea. And throughout the rest of the non-Soviet world there is a yawning military vacuum.

The case of Japan provides perhaps the most striking illustration of the nature of this vacuum. The greatest concentration of American military power outside the United States has been in Japan. Yet the simple fact is that, since Korea, the rulers in the Kremlin can quite rationally hope to gain control of Japan without committing any Russian military forces at all.

Uprising In Japan Easy

On the one hand, since Korea, the only military strength on the Japanese islands consists of a single American division; American air units wholly committed in Korea, and a decentralized and therefore impotent Japanese police force. On the other hand, the Kremlin controls the Japanese Communist party, which has been ordered to prepare for "direct action," and which runs the vital transport and telecommunications unions; 300,000 Japanese prisoners in Siberia, most of whom have received premilitary training, with at least a division and probably more organized and equipped for combat; and the indoctrinated Japanese prisoners already returned to Japan.

Thus it would be remarkably easy for the Kremlin to arrange a "peoples' uprising" in Japan, against the "white chauvinists and American imperialists." While the remaining American occupation forces and the local police had their hands full dealing with sabotage, a "peoples' army" of Japanese prisoners could be landed in the northern island of Hokkaido from the Russian-held port of Sakhalin. And it would be virtually impossible to disengage the American forces in Korea in time to deal with this new threat, particularly if the Chinese Communists simultaneously tied down the 7th Fleet with an attack on Formosa.

This is a nightmare. But it is a nightmare which is taken with grim seriousness by those in close touch with the situation, especially since there have been intelligence reports that the Soviets were establishing a "Japanese peoples' government" in North Korea, and the fact that the Kremlin has this sort of capability even in American-held Japan merely serves to underline the tempting military opportunities which exist right around the borders of the Soviet sphere.

Strength for Weakness

Moreover, the Soviet rulers must certainly be considering carefully one compelling reason for taking further advantage of these opportunities in the near future. This is that the extraordinarily favorable Soviet military situation will not last very long. The United States and its Western allies have now most publicly announced their intention of replacing existing weakness with future strength.

Thus perhaps in two years, perhaps in three, the whole basis of the Soviet world strategy will be undermined. Soviet strategy has been based on a series of demonstrations of Soviet strength and Western weakness, designed to ensure a progressive crumbling of the Western will to resist. When the West is strong, this will no longer be possible.

Moreover, once the West is strong, the Soviet rulers will in turn be faced with the danger of losing control of their vast, unwieldly empire, and ultimately of the Soviet state itself. Thus the whole logic of their situation would seem to compel the Soviet rulers to strike again, and again, to seize vital posi-

"Housekeeping" Took $2 Of $3 Spent In Cold War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Members of Congress are asking what happened to the $50,000,000,000 spent for the "cold war" in the last four years and why more of it wasn't spent for weapons and combat troops.

Senator Johnson of Colorado, Democrat, and members of the House have placed in the "Congressional Record" an explanation which was made by the staff of "U. S. News & World Report" in a lengthy article in a recent issue. The Defense Department has since issued a table of expenditures, but it is based on "obligations" rather than cash payments. This means that a backlog of many millions more was available for aircraft procurement but the money wasn't used.

In brief, the magazine's survey, based on cash outlays for the four fiscal years, shows that "overhead"—often referred to as "military housekeeping"—took $2 out of every $3 spent. To quote from the analysis:

"Two thirds of all military spending has gone for services performed, not for expensive weapons or supplies bought. That includes pay, travel, telephone bills, transportation costs, rents, pensions. . .

No New Ships Ordered

"Only $1 in $7 since the war has been spent on arms of any kind. One in 16 has gone for equipment other than aircraft. Out of $50,000,000,000, about $4,000,000,000 was invested in aircraft, $3,100,000,000 for all other equipment—guns, ships, trucks, radar, new weapons, machinery, and noncombat equipment such as furniture, typewriters and passenger automobiles.

"Spending on combat equipment has been less than enough to replace worn-out items. No new tanks have been bought; only a few World War II left-overs have been remodeled. Buying of new weapons has scarcely begun—most are in the planning or testing stage. No big artillery guns, rifles, machine guns or new naval guns have been purchased. Deadly new 'skysweeper' antiaircraft guns have been developed, but none bought. No new navy ships have been ordered, only a few completed and remodeled. Even the $4,000,000,000 spent on big bombers and fighter planes has not replaced the number of planes worn out during postwar years.

"On weapons alone, spending over four postwar years totaled only $600,000,000. That's less than the amount spent on military travel, half the cost of shipping military freight, and barely twice the amount spent for rent and utilities at military installations. Construction, largely of housing on defense posts, cost half again as much as the total spent on new weapons."

But what did the $50,000,000,000 buy in terms of war strength? The answer is that the number of fighting divisions has dropped from 17 when the "cold war" began in 1946 to 10 divisions now. The amount of combat equipment has grown smaller. Manpower has been cut from 1,891,000 to 1,003,000 men in the Army and the Air Force before the Korean outbreak.

The number of air groups has dropped from 52 to 48. The Air Force and the Navy have bought 8,684 new planes, which is less than the number that wore out in the same four years, cutting the number of planes on hand and in storage from 47,500 to 30,000. Most of the new combat-air-equipment money has gone into big, long-range bombers and fast jet fighters. But output is only at the rate of 215 aircraft a month, compared to 1,350 a month before Pearl Harbor in 1941.

As for the Navy, it has 245 combat ships in operation compared to 291 four years ago. Manpower has been cut from 985,288 to 379,900.

It was "military housekeeping" that took most of the money. About $18,700,000,000 of the $50,000,000,000 went to pay noncombat service men and civilians, with only $6,200,000,000 for the men in the combat units.

Money Not Wasted

Also, of the $8,000,000,000 spent on supplies, only about a fourth went to combat personnel. Various service costs added another $5,500,000,000 and pensions and other outlays took another $3,600,000,000.

"Total charges for housekeeping," says the survey, "may be computed at $34,700,000,000 of the $50,000,000,000. That's more than $2 out of every $3 spent."

The foregoing picture tells why so many more billions have to be spent now. The administration's theory was that a small combat operation—some B-36's and fast fighter planes and a few atomic bombs—would stop the next war almost before it got under way. Nobody figured on the kind of war the other side might have up its sleeve.

But it would be a mistake to say that what was spent was wasted. What was spent sets up a base for expansion and for superimposing more and more combat units. As for readiness to fight, this unfortunately cannot be said to have been achieved. The planners thought of 1952 and 1953 as the years when they would be ready, but the Soviets—wisely or unwisely from their viewpoint, as the future may tell—have alerted America to expand and mobilize now. For it's going to be expensive for America, and the Kermlin may never start any large-scale war.

These Days

Government Accounting

IT is hard to believe, but the accounting system employed by the Government of the United States is antiquated and confused and fails to provide the data. Herbert Hoover once said that the accounting system used by the Post Office was installed by Alexander Hamilton and has not been changed since. The Post Office, once our pride, has in recent years become the most inefficient organ of government.

The Hoover Commission spent much time and effort analyzing the accounts of the government and they proposed a modernized, efficient system that would save billions of dollars. These savings are important today when Congress plans to increase our taxes. Every dollar saved by government is vital to each earner. For instance, the Hoover Commission proposed a unified catalogue of military supplies and equipment, about which I shall write in fuller detail. Suffice it now to say that nothing has been done about it, although such unification can save billions of dollars.

Congress has come up with bills (Senate 3850; House 9038) entitled "Budget and Accounting Procedures of 1950." These bills are being advertised as part of the Hoover Commission's program. They are nothing of the kind. They are government measures which are contrary to a specific recommendation of the Hoover Commission, in the sense that primary accounting and auditing powers are vested in the comptroller-general, an agent of Congress.

The Hoover Commission felt that these functions should be divided; accounting should be the function of the accountant-general in the Treasury, while auditing should be the function of the comptroller-general. It is not good practice for a man to audit his own accounts. Also, the executive should be responsible for its accounts and procedures. As the system is operated today, no single official in the executive branch of government is responsible for the accounting. No private business could operate in such confusion.

The keeping of accounts is most important when so much of our money is being wasted. Our government is too costly and we cannot afford the luxury of such an expensive government while we fight a war. There just is not that much money.

The Secretary of the Treasury and his proper subordinates ought to be responsible for the accounts, which an officer of the Congress should audit. That means authority, responsibility, and control, which is proper procedure. This the bills before Congress do not accomplish.

"The Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report" says:

". . . Progress can be made toward elimination of duplicative and cumbersome procedures and inconsistent and improper application of accounting principles and practices. As recommended by the Hoover Commission, it should be possible to save money by eliminating the legal requirement that millions of expenditure vouchers and supporting papers be sent to Washington and to eliminate or modify such antiquated fiscal procedures as are required under the obsolete warrant system."

We are moving into a tough situation for all of us which we must take seriously. It is a situation that will cost a lot of money. Nobody can evade the cost of the Korean war and all the troubles that will come from it. We shall be spending billions of dollars—the $10,000,000,000 asked for is only a beginning—and these billions must come out of taxes; that is, out of the earnings of the American people.

Therefore, every dollar spent by the government, not only for war but for any purpose, has to be scrutinized carefully and constantly. Our legitimate business men do not need or want graft, twisted accounts, false descriptions, excessive purchases to make earnings. They cannot possibly make as much goods as they can sell. They do not need to load up the government with excessive inventories of supplies.

Yet, the fact is that government is wildly extravagant and always has been. Money—our money goes down the drainpipe. Maybe it is the habit of extravagance.

The other day, out on the road, I counted eight men engaged in drawing a white line on a road. They had all sorts of equipment. We stopped our car to watch. By no calculation could we discover why more than three men were needed. Maybe it is just a habit with us to waste.

Businessmen In Baltimore

Several Cumberland businessmen will attend a meeting today at 10 a.m. in Baltimore in order to learn how to obtain government contracts.

The meeting is to be held in the Federal court room of the Baltimore Post Office Building with Jesse Larsen, director of the General Services Administration, in charge.

Businessmen from the area served by the GSA office in Baltimore will attend in addition to representatives of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and divisions of the Department of Defense and Department of Commerce, Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Comerce, said.

Two other meetings affecting Cumberland are also scheduled in Baltimore today.

Municipal officials are leaving early this morning and will meet with engineers on plans for a filter plant and with State Roads Commission officials in an attempt to get aid in the city's street-restoration program.

Plans for the filter system have been submitted to Whitman, Requardt and Associates, engineering firm, and it is hoped that the cost of the project can be brought to $215,000 or under.

The city is especially interested in learning from the State Roads Commission how it goes about getting aid for the Valley and Frederick Street projects.

To the avid female readers of Vogue magazine he is Joe Carter, the well-bred bachelor who knows what to wear for morning weddings, or how to be a graceful week-end guest at Southampton . . . In reality, he served four years in the Army, has written for the movies, both in Hollywood and England . . . Contributes to Cosmopolitan, Colliers and other slicks . . . Quite a handsome sophisticate with innocent blue eyes, he claims this is the only picture he has of himself . . . Perhaps he's afraid of being swamped.

Coaxial Sex

By THOMAS W. PHIPPS

RECENTLY I have been spending a good many evenings looking at the television sets of my friends, and apart from the fact that I think every set ought to be supplied with a small, folding oculist, I think I see a straw in the wind — and if you'll turn off your set for a few moments I'll tell you what it is.

In the last few nights I've seen four plays televised, and in each one the heroine has been played by a really attractive woman; not a pin-up girl, but a flesh and blood character with charm, subtlety and humor — the kind of girl who hasn't been seen around much for a long time.

THOMAS W. PHIPPS

My relief from looking at the sexy, painted eggshell type of beauty who casts her spell over the movie screens and magazine pages of the country has been immense. Don't get the idea that I'm bored with sex — I'll take it over Canasta every time — but I am bored with the popular American conception of it . . . capped teeth, built-up figures and the doe-eyed look. Sex is better than that — far better — and it's high time we all found out about it.

•—•—•

By introducing this really more desirable and much more appealing woman, Television has the chance to make a national contribution, but if it does it must, in all fairness, teach us how to cope with her. After all, we've been conditioned to cardboard figures for a mighty long time.

What it is going to take is a male re-education program . . . a dozen half-hour shows with a dozen sponsors.

If we're going to get anywhere with this new TV girl we've first of all got to know how to meet her . . . The old time setting up a dinner date by lighting her cigarette at a cocktail party is out . . . Unless I miss my guess this girl is going to need a little flirting with.

And there's the first program — HOW TO FLIRT. I'd be happy to work on this one. We'd see two attractive people catching one another's eye 'across a crowded room' . . . a girl alone in a restaurant cleverly lowering her eyes behind the menu . . . and then the use of the fan . . . Almost a whole program in itself . . . I'd give a commentary on the various techniques of flirting . . . show the different ways an eye can flutter and the meanings each flutter can have. "Have we met before?" "Is there anyone here who can introduce us?" And the key one to interpret correctly — "Meet me in the hall in five minutes."

But a word of warning. The information on this program will have to be very carefully considered, maybe by a panel of experienced international lovers, otherwise a lot of men are going to go around getting their faces slapped and blaming it on the BUBBLE SOAP company.

•—•—•

Once this TV girl has been met and you're settled in a corner table she's not going to be contented with any old meal. And there's another program. HOW TO ORDER A GOOD DINNER . . . and a program on wines . . . and how about some information on the right flower for the right dress . . . on the buying of perfume . . . and all the other delicate attentions which have been out of fashion for so long.

And now that you've finally mastered the Charleston — maybe you'll have to start right in on the waltz.

I admit all this means the airways are going to be cluttered up with a good bit of foolishness — but they've been that way before — only this time they've brought it on themselves. But before the men of America completely reorganize their lives, I'd like to urge them to look at their own television sets and make sure that this new girl really exists . . . Maybe I only dreamt it.

As the year's biggest fur spectacle opens, John Robert Powers tells you how to choose your new coat wisely.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WITH models wearing fur coats to be photographed in Central Park today, and the entire fur-fashioned world putting finishing touches on the unveiling of next winter's styles, it's fur coat time in spite of August's sizzling temperatures.

All the major new styles for the coming year, fashioned in firstrate skins, are available at off-season prices. And by selecting your new coat now, you have the added advantage of being able to coordinate your entire fall and winter wardrobes with it.

Success Story

The long-term success of your choice depends on four important considerations. Before you plunge, consider the following questions:

1. What type of fur is suited to your climate? Icy winters call for dense-piled furs such as beaver, or interlined, light-weight coats such as kidskin. In warmer climes, the light-weight skins without any interlining are most wearable.

2. How much wear are you going to give your coat? If it's to be worn every day to work, shop, drive a car or carry packages, you'll need a sturdy fur. Constant friction causes more damage to fur than anything else. Generally speaking, dense, medium-piled furs wear best.

3. What type of fur will become your figure? If you're tall and slim, the long-haired furs are for you: Fox, raccoon, skunk, opossum. If you are short and slim, wear short-haired furs with a dense pile: Beaver(nutria, muskrat, seal. If you are heavy, tall or short, stick to the flat furs: Caracul, Persian, broadtail. If you are medium-tall, or tall and well-proportioned, any preference you have is yours to state.

What about mink and sable? Well, about all I can say is that if your budget can take them, I guess your figure can!

4. What styles will live as long as the coat? That's one point on which you can rest easy, because changes in fur styles come and go very slowly. Just stay away from trick and faddy styles and details. Unless you can afford several, choose a classic, easy-fitting style that is suitable for both day and evening wear.

Thrilling and exciting as is the purchase of a new fur coat to every woman, it's selection should always be made with the four above considerations uppermost in mind. If you make your choice according to your desire only, you'll miss out on the full value that is inherent in every wisely-selected one!

Forced Landing Made At Airport

A forced landing probably saved the life of a pilot on an experimental plane after the engine quit yesterday at the Municipal Airport.

Jack Huston, of Charlotte, N. C., was practicing aerobatics for the Cumberland Air Show Sunday at the airport when the accident occurred.

The 23-year-old member of Deaton's Air Circus had just taken off in his custom-built Cub and the powerful motor stopped.

By his skillful maneuver, he made a forced landing on the grass between the airport runways, damaging the specially designed landing gear, propeller and wings. The aft section was not damaged.

Huston, who practices every day for his stunt landings on the top of a moving auto, was taken to Memorial Hospital where attaches reported he was not injured. He is being kept there for observation for 24 hours.

If You're Wearing Sandals, Take Care Of Your Feet

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

It's the twinkle of your toes that catches his eye this summer. You wear the barest minimum in playshoes and dress shoes, if you want to be in fashion. The ultra nude sandal stripped right down to its leather sole is a big favorite.

The girl who prettied her feet all winter had a head start on her sisters who neglected to keep their feet in shape.

Many women are wearing polish on their toenails for the first time, says Peggy Sage, who says she invented colored polishes back in 1916. This is the year girls have to be nice to their feet, and toes have come out of hiding as never before.

Perhaps it is the best thing that has happened to women in the glamor world in recent years. Toes always have been little things women could hide from public view, and suffer in silence about. Ingrown toenatils, bunions, callouses and corns are just a few things beauty-wise women will have to attend to, if they wish to wear these new attractive shoes. If fashion prods them into more care for their long-suffering feet, they certainly will find it pays dividends with comfort.

Once a woman begins a regular pedicure routine, she will feel as if she is walking on air as a result of having trimmed and polished toenails, massaged callouses and removed corns. It will not be difficult to persuade her to continue the practice.

Pumice stone is excellent for removing callouses. A chiropodist can prescribe for other foot ills and there are fine foot soaps and lotions to be found in the drugstore. Hand cream rubbed on the feet after a pedicure will leave them soft and comfortable in your shoes. You'll notice too that stockings will not get as many snags when toenails are kept clipped and heels smoothed.

Feet are a big beauty problem because their discomfort can quickly spread to the rest of the body and ruin the disposition. If you're one of those people who claim that your feet expand in summer, making shoes tight and uncomfortable, buy your shoes accordingly, foot experts advise. They suggest anticipating most of this normal spread by buying your shoes at the end of the day, and having your feet measured for size in a standing position.

If you spend a lot of time walking, wear comfortable leathersoled shoes on those occasions. Sneakers are fine on the tennis court but will give you hotfoot on a long hike.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2—(INS)—If General Douglas MacArthur gives his okay—and the permission has to come from him at this crucial time—Margaret O'Brien will go to Tokyo to make "Tokyo Kid" with Misora Hibari, called "The Margaret O'Brien of Japan."

When the little Japanese star visited Hollywood several months ago, she was Margaret's luncheon guest at Romanoff's, and the little girls attracted a lot of attention.

At last, Aly Khan is really sold on a movie for Rita Hayworth. Believe me, if she makes one, Aly is the boy who will pick it out. The story which has Aly jumping is "The Life of Gaby Deslys," queen of the Paris musical comedy stage and the great glamor girl of her day both on the continent and in America.

Soon after Gaby's death her husband, Harry Pilcer, started writing her story. Aly thinks it is perfect for his princess.

In fact, Pilcer will be in Cannes to continue his huddles with Aly when the Khans return from yachting off the Italian Riviera.

Mario Lanza is going to be up to his tonsils in opera singers in "The Life of Caruso." Jarmila Novotna is the latest to be added to the life story of the great Enrico.

Just a few days ago, LOP told you blonde Dorothy Kirsten will sing arias from three operas with Mario. Novotna will duet with him in "Rigoletto" in the scenes when Caruso made his debut at Covent Gardens in England.

"What's more," said Novotna, "we have some hot love scenes after the songs."

Irita Van Doren's three-year-old grandson awoke in the middle of the night, complaining that he had a horrendous dream. He wouldn't go back to sleep until he was allowed to stow his favorite cap-pistol under his pillow. A half-hour later two shots rang out. His parents rushed in to find him twirling his gun in the approved Hopalong Cassidy manner. "That dream came back," he explained, "so I shot it. Of course, this is just a pretend gun—but luckily the dream didn't know that!"

Wolcott Gibbs, who can pick up odds and ends faster than a blue serge suit, came home from one Broadway revue with only one clear impression: a lady who confided to her companion, "She was a sly minx—the only one with sense enough to come to the party naked." Everything else in the show—music, scenery, lyrics, sketches—was a blur in Mr. Gibbs' memory.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

IT BECAME POPULAR in the hey-dey of Henry Mencken, Sinclair Lewis and Heywood Broun to regard instantaneously ludicrous any man who joined his local Rotary Club.

The Rotarian, wherever he labored, was tarred with the brush that had loused up his so-called fictional prototype, George Babbitt—who, as I remember him, was a windy joiner given to amorous excesses while "on the road" and pious platitudes at home.

In the cynical literature of the day—and this condition exists to a certain extent today—the word Rotarian became a synonym for something which, in truth, has nothing whatever to do with the aims of the movement.

Let's take a gander at the make-up of the organization which, through the past 45 years, has drawn to it hundreds of thousands of business and professional men from every continent and practically every nationality and religious belief.

• — • — •

These fellows operate on the basis of friendship among men, revolving around a slogan which runs, "The Ideal of Service." In addition to the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service to fellow men, Rotary also stands for:

1.—High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

2.—The application of the "ideal of service" by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.

3.—The advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the "ideal of service."

It stands to reason, especially in these days, that men who know and respect one another do not go to war against the other. Rotary's universal appeal is that it offers a practical means of enlarging one's friendships, participating in community-betterment undertakings, promoting higher standards of living and understanding, and advancing the cause of good will and peace.

• — • — •

It seeks to remove the frosty barriers that separate men anud cause them to war. Its program of service is in accord with all religions. An individual Rotarian's politics is his own business.

The Rotary Club does not endeavbor to promote civic activities rightfully belonging to other organizations, but every Rotarian, as an individual, is urged to participate in all activities which make his community a better place in which to live.

Throughout the world, Rotarians of diverse nationalities are working personal contacts at Rotary International conventions and in their travels, and through study of the history, economy and culture of other countries, for the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace.

Why shouldn't something like that be encouraged?

• — • — •

Rotary was organized in Chicago shortly after the turn of the century by Paul P. Harris, a young lawyer. He wanted to organize a club which would band together a group of representative business and professional men who might recapture the comradeship of the small-town life many of them had known as youngsters.

Harris named the new organization the "Rotary Club", because originally the members met in rotation at their various places of business. But it soon grew too large for meetings in business offices . . . and found its way (many thousand fold) to the lunch-tables of the world.

Never heard of a Rotarian starting a war or evading a chance to make an honorable peace signed with something more enduring than disappearing ink.

For Building or Rebuilding a Highway CONCRETE is the Best Pavement Buy
For building a new highway or improving an old one, concrete is the safe, durable, economical pavement.
Concrete is safe. Its gritty surface is uniformly skid-resistant, wet or dry. At night it reflects the most light. Higher visibility results in fewer accidents.
Concrete is durable. Many concrete highways all over the country have served for 25 years or longer and are still good for many more years of economical service. Today, air-entrained concrete eliminates scaling, provides even greater built-in durability.
Concrete is economical. It usually costs less to build than any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity, it has longer life and costs much less to maintain. This results in true low-annual-cost service.

Sewage System For Dogwood Flat Discussed

A proposed sewage system for the Dogwood Flat section of Barton was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission.

A delegation of five residents, headed by David Gowans, acting chairman for the petitioners, appeared before the board to discuss the possibilities of obtaining a better system.

At the last meeting of the commission, a petition containing the names of 41 property owners in the area was presented. It asked for assistance in obtaining better sewage disposal facilities.

Most Use Outdoor Toilets

The petition stated there were very few septic tanks with most homes having outdoor toilets.

Dr. William Moseley, chairman of the commission, informed the delegation yesterday the first step is to obtain the amount of assessable property in the area to be covered.

Gowans estimated the assessable value is between $80,000 and $100,000 for the 61 homes. He explained that some of the 41 signers own more than one dwelling.

The commission arranged with the delegation and Court House attaches to obtain an accurate assessable property value.

After this is obtained, the amount of money that may be floated for this project can be determined. Under the law setting up the sanitary commission, the bond issues for any one district cannot exceed ten per cent of the assessable value.

Whole System Planned

Dr. Moseley suggested that a community septic tank be used. Lines could be installed, he said, to flow by gravity to the disposal unit.

Dr. Moseley also pointed out that eventually the whole George's Creek area will be tied in with a sewage disposal system. He said the line would probably run from Frostburg to Westernport.

The system in Dogwood Flat, under his proposal, could then be tied in with the area project.

After the amount of the bond issue is determined, the board said an engineering survey will be made of Dogwood Flat, listing the cost of an accepted plan.

County Draft Calls To Increase

Physical examination calls for August and succeeding months will be four times the number required last month, county draft officials were informed yesterday.

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk co-ordinator of Board Nos. 27, 28 and 29 in Cumberland, said 28 youths registered here were ordered to Martinsburg, W. Va., during July for physicals. Frostburg Board No. 30 sent 15.

That means approximately 172 county registrants may be called up for physical examinations this month and each succeeding month. Twenty-eight more men will leave today and Friday for checkups, bringing the total to about 71, including Frostburg.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service director, said yesterday that "demands on the Selective Service system for manpower indicate that boards must continue to accomplish classification and reclassification until such time as a substantial reserve of Class 1-A (1-A-O) registrants result."

His directive to Fahey stated:

"In order to provide you with an estimate as to the size of future physical examination calls it is suggested that you anticipate that the August and subsequent monthly calls for physicals will equal four times the number required of your local board during July, 1950."

Board No. 30 has received orders to send a second group of 15 registrants to Martinsburg on August 7 for physicals.

New Celanese Contract Grants 10 Cents An Hour Wage Boost

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIA), has ratified a new one-year contract with the Celanese Corporation of America providing for a ten-cent an hour increase to all but 37 cafeteria employes who will receive eight cents an hour.

The company and union announced acceptance of the pact in separate statements yesterday.

The company said the increases and additional overtime pay will amount to $950,000 for the year.

Effective August 8

Boyd E. Payton, regional director of the TWUA, said the contract provides for a general wage increase of ten cents per hour for all employes except the 37 cafeteria workers who will receive eight cents.

The contract is effective August 8 at 7 a. m.

Payton said that, in addition, the new contract contains considerable improvement in language which will give the union greater power to protect the right of the employes.

Payton listed changes in the technological displacement wage clause and the work assignment clauses as most important in this respect.

The old clause on technological displacement wage failed to provide for prior notice to the union of contemplated changes and provided for displacement wage to be paid to the younger employes if it was rejected by the employes affected, Payton said.

The new clause, he continued, provides for notice from the company to the union prior to technological changes and provides for bidding according to seniority by all employes in the department affected by this change.

Warp Knitting Discussed

During the talk with the company, Payton said the question of the Warp Knitting Department, which has been closed for some time, came in for much discussion. The department, he said, employed approximately 300.

The company agreed to pay displacement wage to these employes amounting to $260,000, Payton revealed.

Payton said that on the work assignment clause, the company has always had the right to make changes but was not required to negotiate with the union on same.

The new clause retains the same provision for making changes, but provides for notice to the union of contemplated changes and negotiations thereon prior to the change becoming effective.

In addition to the general increases and the improvements in contract language, the new agreement provides for double and one-half pay for work on holidays. In the past only double time was paid.

Pension Talks Due

In regards to pensions, Payton said, the company and union agreed to continue negotiations looking toward establishment of minimum pensions of $100 per month at age 65.

With the agreement to pay double and one-half time to its employes on the six national holidays, the company said, the wage increase actually amounts to 10.6 cents on the hour for those affected.

The agreement on holiday time preserves the principle in effect prior to the present agreement whereby employes working a holiday received time and one-half time in excess of those who did not work the holiday, a company spokesman said.

The company added that vacation procedure remains the same except that the period on which vacation pay is based has been changed to the preceding calendar year. The qualifying date for vacation has been moved back to February 1 of each year.

Management Rights Clause

The company was also successful in writing in a Management Rights clause.

Absence of such a clause "has been a drawback to us in the past and several arbiters have commented on the fact that we did not have such a provision previously. This clause sets forth in unmistakable terms the rights and privileges of management," a company spokesman said.

The company also considered the new work assignments clause as important. The clause provides for making changes in work loads and working assignments.

"Such a clause was essential," the company said, "in view of the union's previous position that the company could not, without violating the agreement, place disputed work load changes in effect prior to submitting them to arbitration."

The company said the question of pensions will be discussed at a later date.

Amicable Discussions

The contract was negotiated on an amicable basis over the past six weeks with the parties working cooperatively to obtain an agreement satisfactory to both, spokesmen for the company and union said.

A committee representing the union in the negotiations was composed of Earl W. Snyder, president; Melvin Harris, secretary-treasurer; Homer Berry, vice president; Playford Aldridge, of Bobbin Stores; Jesse Barkley, Filtration; Lillian Burch, Coning; Mary Humphrey, Twisting Examination; Carl Hinkle, Engineering; Bernard Lowery, Finished Fabric Warehouse; William Miller, Service; Mary O'Haner, Customers Warping; John Powers, Fortisan; Donald Roach, Cafeteria; James Summers, Twisting; Elmer Warnick, Dye House; George Lyons, CA Department; and Charles Davis, Spinning.

The union committee was assisted by Herbert A. Payne, director of the Synthetic Yarn Division of the union, and Payton, who in addition to his duties as regional director of Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland, has been serving as special assistant to Payne.

Hal White Hurls Two-Hitter As Detroit Blanks Yanks, 4-0

Tigers Increase AL Lead To Two Games

DETROIT, Aug. 2 (INS) — Right-hander Hal White, making his fourth start off the season, shackled the New York Yankees with a two-hit pitching performance today as the Detroit Tigers won 4 to 0 and boosted their American League lead to two games.

White let only one Yankee get to second base, walked just two batters and struck out four. He also singled in the second inning to drive in Don Kolloway with the Tigers first run.

The triumph was the third of the season against four setbacks for the second-line Detroit pitcher.

A single by Gene Woodling in the third inning and a single by Johnny Mize in the fourth were the only hits off White. Box:

Slot Raid Has No Effect On "Tam" Golf Pursestring

Owner To Hold Event Despite Legal Woes

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The cops have corraled slot machines at the Tam O' Shanter Country Club, but a $75,000 jackpot nevertheless will spill over the golf course within the next 10 days.

A record field of 400 pros, women and men amateurs has assembled for George S. May's telescoped $20,000 All-American and $55,000 "world" championship tourneys. Even as the golfers gathered, the Tam promoter was in a legal joust against a charge of keeping gaming devices, the slot machines.

The 10-day fairways marathon begins tomorrow with the All-American kickoff, including 43 feminine stars shooting the first round of a 72-hole route and 253 professionals scrapping for 56 tourney berths.

On Friday, the women will play their second round and 141 amateurs will tee off in their phase of the All-American. On Saturday, the All-American will be in full blast with 76 pros, tomorrow's qualifiers plus 20 hand-picked entries, playing for keeps.

The piece de resistance, the lush "world" championship, will begin a week from tomorrow, with the 32 top pros, eight women pros, eight women amateurs, and 16 men's amateurs from the All-American all sailing into a 72-hole showdown.

May's legal difficulties began July 4 when the state's attorney office conducted a raid of Tam. A batch of slot machines and some chance wheels were confiscated and May was charged with keeping gambling devices.

The field for the double-decked competition has virtually all of the game's top names with the exception of bantam Ben Hogan, U. S. Open champion.

Slot Raid Has No Effect On "Tam" Golf Pursestring

Owner To Hold Event Despite Legal Woes

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The cops have corraled slot machines at the Tam O' Shanter Country Club, but a $75,000 jackpot nevertheless will spill over the golf course within the next 10 days.

A record field of 400 pros, women and men amateurs has assembled for George S. May's telescoped $20,000 All-American and $55,000 "world" championship tourneys. Even as the golfers gathered, the Tam promoter was in a legal joust against a charge of keeping gaming devices, the slot machines.

The 10-day fairways marathon begins tomorrow with the All-American kickoff, including 43 feminine stars shooting the first round of a 72-hole route and 253 professionals scrapping for 56 tourney berths.

On Friday, the women will play their second round and 141 amateurs will tee off in their phase of the All-American. On Saturday, the All-American will be in full blast with 76 pros, tomorrow's qualifiers plus 20 hand-picked entries, playing for keeps.

The piece de resistance, the lush "world" championship, will begin a week from tomorrow, with the 32 top pros, eight women pros, eight women amateurs, and 16 men's amateurs from the All-American all sailing into a 72-hole showdown.

May's legal difficulties began July 4 when the state's attorney office conducted a raid of Tam. A batch of slot machines and some chance wheels were confiscated and May was charged with keeping gambling devices.

The field for the double-decked competition has virtually all of the game's top names with the exception of bantam Ben Hogan, U. S. Open champion.

Fishing Vessel Snags Horned-Type Mine

SEATTLE, Aug. 2 (AP) — The owners of the fishing vessel Harold A., have a big catch aboard they would like to dispose of. They called on the Coast Guard and Navy for help today.

The Harold A., owned by Norland A. Arentson of Edmonds, brought in a horned-type mine, apparently Japanese, in its nets last night while fishing 16 miles southwest of Destruction Island.

The Coast Guard was informed that it is "very large."

A Navy mine disposal crew is on the way.

Bearden Sold To Nats

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2 (INS) — Lefty Gene Bearden, the handsome kid with the Arkansas drawl who pitched the Cleveland Indians to a pennant in 1948, was sold to the Washington Senators today for the $10,000 waiver price.

The lanky war hero, who stepped into the baseball spotlight at Cleveland practically overnight, bowed out almost as quickly. He changes uniforms tonight when the Indians play Washington.

Army Tourney Off

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP) — The army world-wide baseball tournament, originally scheduled to open here Sept. 1, has been cancelled.

The army said today the cancellation was made because of lack of transportation due to the Korean conflict.

Ruddy Captures Main Event At Saratoga Track

Breaks Skein Of Losing Favorites

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP) — It remained for Greentree Stable's Ruddy to break the streak of losing choices here today when the daughter of Devil Diver-Blade Of Time won the sixth and best event on the stakesless program, called the Yaddo.

She was placed under the whip by Ted Atkinson to outgame Llangollen Farm's Wisteria, a two-time winner at Monmouth Park, by a half-length in an exciting finish. Two lengths farther away in third place was George D. Widener's first-time starter, Blue Moon, while Brookmeade Stable's Atalanta was a non-threatening fourth in the field of seven sprightly looking two-year-old fillies.

Ruddy, a candidate for both the Schuylerville and the Spinaway stakes, marked the second triumph of the meeting for Greentree, whose handicap champion, Capot, captured the Wilson under Atkinson yesterday. She paid $4.20 straight and turned the 5½ furlongs on a dead track in 1:07.

The half-sister to Guillotine and Blue Border has not finished worse than second in five starts. She competed in four races during the Belmont Park meeting, where she placed second thrice and was a winner.

Equihaze Is Victor

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — George E. Babin's favored Equihaze romped to a two-lengths victory over Paul Sullivan's Double Nip in the featured six furlong race today before an 11,483 crowd at Suffolk Downs.

After Equihaze came under the wire in 1:14.4 on a heavy track, John Gavegnano's Little Captain showed, another two lengths behind Double Nip.

Equihaze returned $4.80, $3.40 and $2.60, Double Nip returned $5.80 and $3.60 and Little Captain paid $4.20 for show.

The winning combination of Dark Venture and Foster's Pride returned a $36.20 daily double payoff on 977 tickets.

Double Brandy Wins

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP) — C. Ewing Tuttle's Double Brandy this afternoon captured honors in the fifth running of the mile and a furlong Omnibus Handicap, while Mrs. Evelyn L. Hopkins' Three Rings remained in his barn due to the muddy condition of the track.

Double Brandy, a son of Questionnaire who had previously accounted for the Brandywine Handicap this year, finished two and a half lengths clear of Marise Farm's Uncle Edgar. One length farther back came Brookmeade Stable's Going Away, while H. W. Fincher's Air Attack was a distant trailer.

Backers of the "crapshooters' double" of 7 and 11 took down a return of $100.40 when E. D. Talbert, Jr's Battle Cry and H. B. Cohen's Freddie Baum sported those numbers to victory in the first and second races, respectively.

CYCLE AIDING CARDS?

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Rabid St. Louis Cardinals fans believe the cycle of baseball history is pointing to a victory for the Cards over the Detroit Tigers in the 1950 World Series. They point out that the Redbirds have won three of their six world championships in eight year cycles, beginning in 1926. They beat the Yankees in 1926, the Tigers in 1934, and the Yankees in 1942. It's eight years later, and the Tigers' turn again, these fans reason.

Ruddy Captures Main Event At Saratoga Track

Breaks Skein Of Losing Favorites

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP) — It remained for Greentree Stable's Ruddy to break the streak of losing choices here today when the daughter of Devil Diver-Blade Of Time won the sixth and best event on the stakeless program, called the Yaddo.

She was placed under the whip by Ted Atkinson to outgame Llangollen Farm's Wisteria, a two-time winner at Monmouth Park, by a half-length in an exciting finish. Two lengths farther away in third place was George D. Widener's first-time starter, Blue Moon, while Brookmeade Stable's Atalanta was a non-threatening fourth in the field of seven sprightly looking two-year-old fillies.

Ruddy, a candidate for both the Schuylerville and the Spinaway stakes, marked the second triumph of the meeting for Greentree, whose handicap champion, Capot, captured the Wilson under Atkinson yesterday. She paid $4.20 straight and turned the 5½ furlongs on a dead track in 1:07.

The half-sister to Guillotine and Blue Border has not finished worse than second in five starts. She competed in four races during the Belmont Park meeting, where she placed second thrice and was a winner.

Equihaze Is Victor

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — George E. Babin's favored Equihaze romped to a two-lengths victory over Paul Sullivan's Double Nip in the featured six furlong race today before an 11,483 crowd at Suffolk Downs.

After Equihaze came under the wire in 1:14.4 on a heavy track, John Gavegnano's Little Captain showed, another two lengths behind Double Nip.

Equihaze returned $4.80, $3.40 and $2.60, Double Nip returned $5.80 and $3.60 and Little Captain paid $4.20 for show.

The winning combination of Dark Venture and Foster's Pride returned a $36.20 daily double payoff on 977 tickets.

Double Brandy Wins

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP) — C. Ewing Tuttle's Double Brandy this afternoon captured honors in the fifth running of the mile and a furlong Omnibus Handicap, while Mrs. Evelyn L. Hopkins' Three Rings remained in his barn due to the muddy condition of the track.

Double Brandy, a son of Questionnaire who had previously accounted for the Brandywine Handicap this year, finished two and a half lengths clear of Marise Farm's Uncle Edgar. One length farther back came Brookmeade Stable's Going Away, while H. W. Fincher's Air Attack was a distant trailer.

Backers of the "crapshooters' double" of 7 and 11 took down a return of $100.40 when E. D. Talbert, Jr's Battle Cry and H. B. Cohen's Freddie Baum sported those numbers to victory in the first and second races, respectively.

CYCLE AIDING CARDS?

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Rabid St. Louis Cardinals fans believe the cycle of baseball history is pointing to a victory for the Cards over the Detroit Tigers in the 1950 World Series. They point out that the Redbirds have won three of their six world championships in eight year cycles, beginning in 1926. They beat the Yankees in 1926, the Tigers in 1934, and the Yankees in 1942. It's eight years later, and the Tigers' turn again, these fans reason.

Madness Enters The Human Soul

THE psychiatrists have explained a great many things, but, glib as they are, I doubt that any of them can explain away "Detour," though one of them tries awfully hard.

"Detour" (ABC, 9 p. m., EDT, Wednesdays) is billed as a psychological drama and it even has a resident psychiatrist, Dr. Richard Hoffman, to add tone to the proceedings. Dr. Hoffman talks dolefully about "the slaves of suspicion . . . the invisible ghosts which make untrue things true. Too often the mind of a man beset by suspicion is locked in a logic-proof compartment. He may be forced by the agony of life itself to find a detour."

John Crosby

• — • — •

These dreary platitudes are intended to excuse a woeful little drama about a man who was so beset by suspicion of his innocent wife that he hires a man to kill her, and then has a terrible time calling the whole thing off. At intervals, Dr. Hoffman interrupted the narrative to advance the cause of science by such statements as "a cancerous thought can grow like a cancer cell. Suspicion can grow into delusion." These profound observations didn't conceal the fact that the story written on a soap opera level and that the man who played the husband sounded more like Ozzie Nelson than a man obsessed with jealousy to the point of insanity.

In another of these delectable dramas, Dr. Hoffman was overheard to remark: "Fear, greed, malice may soundproof the mind against conscience. We lose the distinction between right and wrong and take the detour . . . There are two basic sources of conflict—something you want and can't get, something you have and can't get rid of."

• — • — •

The hero of this epic suffered from the last one. His first wife had disappeared and present was declared legally dead, leaving him $2,000,000. He had remarried when the first wife showed up again. Seems she had been in an insane asylum, suffering from amnesia as well as insanity. He decides to drive her looney again so he can settle down and enjoy his second wife and his $2,000,000. He even kills a blackmailer and tries to pin the murder on her. But, as Dr. Hoffman so wisely observes, this "path is beset by many dangers." The husband succeeds only in driving his second wife out of her wits and the murder stays pinned on himself.

"When conscience is murdered, madness enters the human soul," concluded Dr. Hoffman sadly. After listening to this thing, a good deal of madness entered my own soul which, being that of a critic, is only partly human. Conscience had nothing to do with it, Dr. H. My feeling is that the psychiatrists should stick to their sofas. By trying to add a little respectability to these deplorable melodramas, Dr. Hoffman is just putting his own profession in disrepute.

Some time ago, on Kraft theater, I watched another psychological murder story by the name of "Macbeth." The psychiatry was a good deal more pentrating than Dr. Hoffman's, but it was expressed by laymen. Shakespeare didn't need any assistance from psychiatrists. This is the second time "Macbeth" has hit the television screens and it should now be clear to everyone that you can't boil "Macbeth" down to an hour. I'm not one of those who feel that Shakespeare shouldn't be excised here and there, but I doubt that anyone can find any fat on "Macbeth" to cut off. It is Shakespeare's leanest tragedy.

Uta Hagen is a very good actress indeed, but she hasn't the ferocity or the stature of a Lady Macbeth. I simply can't believe she would pluck the nipple out and dash her baby's brains out against a tree. She's much too nice a girl. Also, while a lot of good lines were cut out that should-not have been, at least one line was left in that shouldn't have been. The first time we laid eyes on Miss Hagen, who is the most voluminously constructed Lady Macbeth I ever saw, she declared: "What, Duncan coming into my battlement?" It threw the whole play out of focus in my living room for quite a spell.

"The Authority on Authorities"

AN EXPERT'S FINESSE

WITH the average player, an ordinary finesse is usually a 50-50 chance to win, as the mathematical tables tell us. But the real expert, who is a fine card-reader, sometimes is absolutely sure that a particular finesse will win. What he has learned about that suit, as a result of information obtained on other suits, guides him to the winning play. On other occasions, the information is not absolutely conclusive. The declarer can not be utterly certain that the finesse will work, but still he has enough knowledge to know it figures to be a better chance than trying for a break of the suit through laying down all his high cards in it.

What beautiful and informative bidding. South's two club bids followed by diamonds showed his 6-4 distribution. North's first three heart bids were natural, advertising his six-card length. His fourth of course was a two-ace answer to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps and his fifth was a two-king response to the 5-No Trumps. On top of which South did a job of playing.

West led the diamond 7. When the 10 won that, South also scored the K, A and Q, watching the fall of the cards for information. Then he won with the club A and K, noting West's discard of the spade 4. Knowing now that the clubs wouldn't break, he did his main diagnosing.

West, having shown that he led a four-card diamond suit, and now that he had only one club, had eight cards originally in the two majors. If either had been of five cards, West, a thoroughly conventional player, would have led it in preference to his diamond four-carder. Hence both were of four cards. So South scored his club Q and then his heart K. He knew East's heart 7 on that trick was almost surely a singleton. So next he led the heart 3 and finessed the 10. The A and Q then cleared out the J and he ran the rest of the tricks to have his big slam.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

These dreary platitudes are intended to excuse a woeful little drama about a man who was so beset by suspicion of his innocent wife that he hires a man to kill her, and then has a terrible time calling the whole thing off. At intervals, Dr. Hoffman interrupted the narrative to advance the cause of science by such statements as "a cancerous thought can grow like a cancer cell. Suspicion can grow into delusion." These profound observations didn't conceal the fact that the story written on a soap opera level and that the man who played the husband sounded more like Ozzie Nelson than a man obsessed with jealousy to the point of insanity.

In another of these delectable dramas, Dr. Hoffman was overheard to remark: "Fear, greed, malice may soundproof the mind against conscience. We lose the distinction between right and wrong and take the detour . . . There are two basic sources of conflict—something you want and can't get, something you have and can't get rid of."

• — • — •

The hero of this epic suffered from the last one. His first wife had disappeared and present was declared legally dead, leaving him $2,000,000. He had remarried when the first wife showed up again. Seems she had been in an insane asylum, suffering from amnesia as well as insanity. He decides to drive her looney again so he can settle down and enjoy his second wife and his $2,000,000. He even kills a blackmailer and tries to pin the murder on her. But, as Dr. Hoffman so wisely observes, this "path is beset by many dangers." The husband succeeds only in driving his second wife out of her wits and the murder stays pinned on himself.

"When conscience is murdered, madness enters the human soul," concluded Dr. Hoffman sadly. After listening to this thing, a good deal of madness entered my own soul which, being that of a critic, is only partly human. Conscience had nothing to do with it, Dr. H. My feeling is that the psychiatrists should stick to their sofas. By trying to add a little respectability to these deplorable melodramas, Dr. Hoffman is just putting his own profession in disrepute.

Some time ago, on Kraft theater, I watched another psychological murder story by the name of "Macbeth." The psychiatry was a good deal more pentrating than Dr. Hoffman's, but it was expressed by laymen. Shakespeare didn't need any assistance from psychiatrists. This is the second time "Macbeth" has hit the television screens and it should now be clear to everyone that you can't boil "Macbeth" down to an hour. I'm not one of those who feel that Shakespeare shouldn't be excised here and there, but I doubt that anyone can find any fat on "Macbeth" to cut off. It is Shakespeare's leanest tragedy.

Uta Hagen is a very good actress indeed, but she hasn't the ferocity or the stature of a Lady Macbeth. I simply can't believe she would pluck the nipple out and dash her baby's brains out against a tree. She's much too nice a girl. Also, while a lot of good lines were cut out that shouldnot have been, at least one line was left in that shouldn't have been. The first time we laid eyes on Miss Hagen, who is the most voluminously constructed Lady Macbeth I ever saw, she declared: "What, Duncan coming into my battlement?" It threw the whole play out of focus in my living room for quite a spell.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

AN EXPERT'S FINESSE

WITH the average player, an ordinary finesse is usually a 50-50 chance to win, as the mathematical tables tell us. But the real expert, who is a fine card-reader, sometimes is absolutely sure that a particular finesse will win. What he has learned about that suit, as a result of information obtained on other suits, guides him to the winning play. On other occasions, the information is not absolutely conclusive. The declarer can not be utterly certain that the finesse will work, but still he has enough knowledge to know it figures to be a better chance than trying for a break of the suit through laying down all his high cards in it.

What beautiful and informative bidding. South's two club bids followed by diamonds showed his 6-4 distribution. North's first three heart bids were natural, advertising his six-card length. His fourth of course was a two-ace answer to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps and his fifth was a two-king response to the 5-No Trumps. On top of which South did a job of playing.

West led the diamond 7. When the 10 won that, South also scored the K, A and Q, watching the fall of the cards for information. Then he won with the club A and K, noting West's discard of the spade 4. Knowing now that the clubs wouldn't break, he did his main diagnosing.

West, having shown that he led a four-card diamond suit, and now that he had only one club, had eight cards originally in the two majors. If either had been of five cards, West, a thoroughly conventional player, would have led it in preference to his diamond four-carder. Hence both were of four cards. So South scored his club Q and then his heart K. He knew East's heart 7 on that trick was almost surely a singleton. So next he led the heart 3 and finessed the 10. The A and Q then cleared out the J and he ran the rest of the tricks to have his big slam.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

William H. Ansel, Jr., Springfield, Democratic state treasurer serving under appointment until the November election, was nominated for the unexpired term.

Rush D. Holt, Democratic "boy senator" turned Republican, gained an impressive primary victory in his bid to return to Congress as a representative from the Third District.

The Reticent Rainmaker

AS AN OLD hoopla and hurrah merchant, I've always figured that if you beat the drum loudly enough people will eventually start keeping time to it with their feet. Or, to put it another way: To make the world think you're Johnny Hotshot, you've got to mix a little neon with the name. But the modest behavior of Prof. Wallace E. Howell, the rainmaker hired by the city of New York, has shaken my faith in my theories and made me wonder whether understatement isn't sometimes the better part of lungpower.

Billy Rose

I hadn't thought much about the climatologist until a couple of weekends ago when my missus and I were playing host to a group of theatre people in Mt. Kisco. Ordinarily, these weisenheimers wouldn't concede that God made green apples without first getting a certificate from Luther Burbank, but on the subject of Professor Howell they were as gullible as a farmer's daughter.

That Saturday afternoon and night it had rained cats and canines, but when we came down to breakfast the next morning a dazzle had replaced the drench and it looked as if we might finally get around to using a little suntan oil.

"It won't last," said Nicky Blair, the cabaret man. "The rainmaker won't let it."

"You mean," I said, "you really believe that this buttinsky from Boston is responsible for all the wet we've been having?"

"Who else?" said Nicky.

"He isn't making any such claims," I said. "According to the papers, he says he's not sure he had anything to do with the rain."

"He's playing it cagey," said Nicky as he hacked away at his hotcakes.

The rest of our guests agreed with him. And when I began to think of it, I remembered that so did the farmers in Jersey who thanked Howell for helping them with their crops—and so did the Westchester amusement park concessionaires who threatened to sue the city if it didn't call off the cloud-nudger.

I guess that it gets down to this: There's a persnickety perverseness in folks which makes them believe the opposite of anything you tell them. If Hopalong Howell had claimed credit for the rise in our resorvoirs, chances are the newspapers would have ganged up on him and called him a double-domed phony. But seeing as how the prof has been playing it pianissimo, we poo-poo his modesty and insist he did it all with his little bucket of cracked ice. Besides, a modest man in public life is such a novelty that the whole eight million of us are kind of stuck on him.

Water Commissioner Carney recently recommended that we keep Howell on the payroll for at least six months more, and the other day the New York Daily News pitched him a posey on its editorial page and opined it would be well worth the fifty grand it would cost to keep the rainmaker in our midst.

All of this has me a bit kerflumixed. Over the years I've spent a pretty peso hullabalooing what I had to sell. Could it be that I've been barking up the wrong axiom, and that the best way to make people think you've got diamonds in your teeth is to keep your mouth shut?

2 Frederick County Farmers Electrocuted

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 2 (AP) — Two farmers were electrocuted early today after a high tension wire fell and sent its charges through a wire fence.

Matter Of Fact

tions while the opportunity to do so still exists.

There is just one reason why the men in the Kremlin may hesitate. Again, Japan provides a convenient illustration. However disguised as a "peoples' revolt," a Soviet-sponsored attack on Japan would almost certainly mean a general war, because the United States is formally committed in Japan. A general war would mean the use of the American atomic stockpile against the Soviet Union. Thus the prize, although Japan is the greatest prize in the Orient, may not seem worta the risk.

Yet the risk must certainly seem less grave to the Soviet rulers in those other areas—Burma, for example, or Iran, or Yugoslavia, or Finland—where the United States is not formally committed. In such areas the prize may seem well worth the risk. This is why serious consideration is being given in certain quarters to a formal warning that the United States will consider any aggression by the Soviet Union or its satellites as an act of war. There are obvious and grave disadvantages to such a course. But there are able men who are coming to believe that only thus can peace be preserved.

The Reticent Rainmaker

AS AN OLD hoopla and hurrah merchant, I've always figured that if you beat the drum loudly enough people will eventually start keeping time to it with their feet. Or, to put it another way: To make the world think you're Johnny Hotshot, you've got to mix a little neon with the name. But the modest behavior of Prof. Wallace E. Howell, the rainmaker hired by the city of New York, has shaken my faith in my theories and made me wonder whether understatement isn't sometimes the better part of lungpower.

Billy Rose

I hadn't thought much about the climatologist until a couple of weekends ago when my missus and I were playing host to a group of theatre people in Mt. Kisco. Ordinarily, these weisenheimers wouldn't concede that God made green apples without first getting a certificate from Luther Burbank, but on the subject of Professor Howell they were as gullible as a farmer's daughter.

That Saturday afternoon and night it had rained cats and canines, but when we came down to breakfast the next morning a dazzle had replaced the drench and it looked as if we might finally get around to using a little suntan oil.

"It won't last," said Nicky Blair, the cabaret man. "The rainmaker won't let it."

"You mean," I said, "you really believe that this buttinsky from Boston is responsible for all the wet we've been having?"

"Who else?" said Nicky.

"He isn't making any such claims," I said. "According to the papers, he says, he's not sure he had anything to do with the rain."

"He's playing it cagey," said Nicky as he hacked away at his hotcakes.

The rest of our guests agreed with him. And when I began to think of it, I remembered that so did the farmers in Jersey who thanked Howell for helping them with their crops—and so did the Westchester amusement park concessionaires who threatened to sue the city if it didn't call off the cloud-nudger.

I guess that it gets down to this: There's a persnickety perverseness in folks which makes them believe the opposite of anything you tell them. If Hopalong Howell had claimed credit for the rise in our resorvoirs, chances are the newspapers would have ganged up on him and called him a double-domed phony. But seeing as how the prof has been playing it pianissimo, we poo-poo his modesty and insist he did it all with his little bucket of cracked ice. Besides, a modest man in public life is such a novelty that the whole eight million of us are kind of stuck on him.

Water Commissioner Carney recently recommended that we keep Howell on the payroll for at least six months more, and the other day the New York Daily News pitched him a posey on its editorial page and opined it would be well worth the fifty grand it would cost to keep the rainmaker in our midst.

All of this has me a bit kerflumixed. Over the years I've spent a pretty peso hullabalooing what I had to sell. Could it be that I've been barking up the wrong axiom, and that the best way to make people think you've got diamonds in your teeth is to keep your mouth shut?

2 Frederick County Farmers Electrocuted

Matter Of Fact

tions while the opportunity to do so still exists.

There is just one reason why the men in the Kremlin may hesitate. Again, Japan provides a convenient illustration. However disguised as a "peoples' revolt," a Soviet-sponsored attack on Japan would almost certainly mean a general war, because the United States is formally committed in Japan. A general war would mean the use of the American atomic stockpile against the Soviet Union. Thus the prize, although Japan is the greatest prize in the Orient, may not seem worta the risk.

Yet the risk must certainly seem less grave to the Soviet rulers in those other areas—Burma, for example, or Iran, or Yugoslavia, or Finland—where the United States is not formally committed. In such areas the prize may seem well worth the risk. This is why serious consideration is being given in certain quarters to a formal warning that the United States will consider any aggression by the Soviet Union or its satellites as an act of war. There are obvious and grave disadvantages to such a course. But there are able men who are coming to believe that only thus can peace be preserved.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are nursery schools good for children?

Answer: They would seem to have both good points and bad ones. Aside from the relief they provide for harassed mothers, they may be extremely helpful in teaching a child to get along with other children on an equal basis. But Miss Anna Freud — whose nursery schools for war-time British children were world-famous — warns that they have limitations. No school can be an effective substitute for close contact with parents, especially mother, and a child who is inclined to be tense may find being with strangers too much for him.

Can you "work yourself to death"?

Answer: Probably not. Soldiers no doubt have died of exhaustion in a military crisis, but few peace-time situations make such demands, and the man or woman who "does nothing but work" is the victim of neurotic fears or compulsions. As a rule a "nervous breakdown" will take place long before fatigue becomes fatal, but even if that should happen, the real cause would be the conflict between the oppressive "sense of duty" that leads to the over-work and unconscious rage at the frustration of the normal "pleasure impulse."

May exaggeration be a family trait?

Answer: Yes. There are families in which you might say everybody talks in "scare heads," and the only way one person ever gets a hearing is by shouting someone else down. Everything is pictured as bigger or smaller, worse or better than it really is, but since each person discounts what any other says, they get on reasonably well together. It's mainly a form of childishness, and does little harm unless a member of the family marries an outsider with a different background. But in such a case, adjustment is not easy.

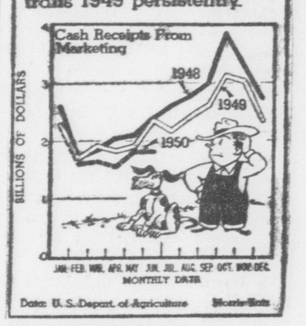
Market Suffers Its First Setback In Six Sessions

Spotlight On Business

FARMERS GET LESS
Cash 'take' from marketing trails 1949 persistently.



NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — A mild afternoon selling breeze pushed the stock market lower today for the first setback in six trading sessions.

Declines were small for the most part, most of them $1 a share or less. A substantial number of stocks, at the same time, made a little progress.

Trading gathered a little speed when prices were slipping and sales reached 1,980,000 shares, tops for the week and just ahead of 1,970,000 shares Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .1 of one point to 76.1, the first average setback since a week ago Tuesday. In the meantime the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange has increased by roughly $2,000,000,000.

Today a decline in the rail group was enough to out weigh advances in the industrial and utility sections.

The market evidently was jolted a bit today by the support key congressional committees gave legislation to allow the President drastic war controls — far more than the President had asked.

A vote in the House on war legislation was imminent but had not been taken before the close of the market.

Douglas Aircraft lost 2⅛ at 87¾ and Bendix Aviation 1¼ at 49. Fractionally off were United Air Lines at 18⅜, Trans World Air 20⅛, Consolidated Vultee 16⅝, Republic Aviation 13⅜, Boeing 33, Lockheel 34⅛ and North American Aviation 16½.

Steels, rails, motors, radio-televisions and chemicals were almost uniformly lower.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are nursery schools good for children?

Answer: They would seem to have both good points and bad ones. Aside from the relief they provide for harassed mothers, they may be extremely helpful in teaching a child to get along with other children on an equal basis. But Miss Anna Freud — whose nursery schools for war-time British children were world-famous — warns that they have limitations. No school can be an effective substitute for close contact with parents, especially mother, and a child who is inclined to be tense may find being with strangers too much for him.

Can you "work yourself to death"?

Answer: Probably not. Soldiers no doubt have died of exhaustion in a military crisis, but few peace-time situations make such demands, and the man or woman who "does nothing but work" is the victim of neurotic fears or compulsions. As a rule a "nervous breakdown" will take place long before fatigue becomes fatal, but even if that should happen, the real cause would be the conflict between the oppressive "sense of duty" that leads to the over-work and unconscious rage at the frustration of the normal "pleasure impulse."

May exaggeration be a family trait?

Answer: Yes. There are families in which you might say everybody talks in "scare heads," and the only way one person ever gets a hearing is by shouting someone else down. Everything is pictured as bigger or smaller, worse or better than it really is, but since each person discounts what any other says, they get on reasonably well together. It's mainly a form of childishness, and does little harm unless a member of the family marries an outsider with a different background. But in such a case, adjustment is not easy.

Market Suffers Its First Setback In Six Sessions

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — A mild afternoon selling breeze pushed the stock market lower today for the first setback in six trading sessions.

Declines were small for the most part, most of them $1 a share or less. A substantial number of stocks, at the same time, made a little progress.

Trading gathered a little speed when prices were slipping and sales reached 1,980,000 shares, tops for the week and just ahead of 1,970,000 shares Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .1 of one point to 76.1, the first average setback since a week ago Tuesday. In the meantime the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange has increased by roughly $2,000,000,000.

Today a decline in the rail group was enough to out weigh advances in the industrial and utility sections.

The market evidently was jolted a bit today by the support key congressional committees gave legislation to allow the President drastic war controls — far more than the President had asked.

A vote in the House on war legislation was imminent but had not been taken before the close of the market.

Douglas Aircraft lost 2⅛ at 87¾ and Bendix Aviation 1¼ at 49. Fractionally off were United Air Lines at 18⅜, Trans World Air 20⅛, Consolidated Vultee 16⅝, Republic Aviation 13⅜, Boeing 33, Lockheel 34⅛ and North American Aviation 16½.

Steels, rails, motors, radio-televisions and chemicals were almost uniformly lower.

Butler Calls For Full Scale Clean Up Of State Department

Praises McCarthy For Attacks On Fellow Travelers

Cleaning out the State Department from top to bottom was advocated last night by John Marshall Butler, candidate for the GOP nomination to the United States Senate, in a speech before the Young Men's Republican Club of Frostburg.

In a vigorous speech directed at domestic and foreign policy, Butler declares the State Department is "infected with men not in sympathy with our form of government."

In recent years, he asserted, State Department policy has been to let Korea slip in such a way that nobody would know we let it down."

On domestic issues, he hit at President Truman's advisers, saying they are men who "do not believe in the old fashioned form of American government but rather favor regimentation and a government by bureaucracy."

In the event of a full scale war, Butler pointed out, higher taxes will be necessary, but declared every possible economy should be effected in domestic policy in an effort to balance the budget.

Asks Balanced Budget

"The surest way to dictatorship," he declared, "is an unbalanced budget."

There are too many "fellow travelers" in the government, Butler declared in referring to the Washington scene, saying Senator McCarthy has "performed a great service to the American people in trying to expose the presence of fellow travelers in the State Department."

In asking support in Western Maryland, Butler said the coming elections must not be considered ordinary elections since the issues at stake are the greatest ever to be faced by the United States.

"I never heard of a communist in the Republican Party," Butler declared.

As candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senate, Butler met with the club to discuss fundamentals of Republicanism and today's opportunities for Republican leadership.

D. Jerome Wilson and James G. Neilson, Jr., president and secretary of the club, made public the following statement issued by Butler.

Issues Statement

"As a native son of Maryland I have found it difficult to believe that Senator Tydings accurately represents in Washington the basic interests and beliefs of the majority of Maryland people.

"We want the kind of careful attention to all elements of our national security that makes military unpreparedness impossible.

"We expect enthusiastic support from our representatives in Washington for a continuance of the form of self-government that has placed this country head and shoulders above the rest of the world.

"And I believe that Marylanders expect from our senators a maximum of service in the public interest and a minimum of service in the special interests of questionable policies and practices of the national administration.

"This, then is my platform: To bring a strong Maryland voice to the reaffirmation and strengthening of American principles; to be a representative in the United States Senate who will be first for Maryland and what this state stands for."

Special Jury Called In Trooper's Death

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 2 (AP)—Judge Joseph D. Mish today called the Washington County Grand Jury into special session for next Monday to consider the killing of State Trooper Lauren M. Ridge.

The 29-year-old trooper was shot to death July 14 while trying to disarm a former circus performer who had fired at a car occupied by two tax assessors.

Steve Oris, 61, who was shot four times by other officers, is charged with the murder. He is in fair condition at the Washington County Hospital.

Ridge, the first Maryland state policeman to be killed in line of duty, had attempted to wrest a rifle from Oris. Witnesses said Oris drew a revolver and shot Ridge.

Oris later was driven from his house by tear gas and was shot when he did not drop his gun after emerging.

Head Of Shrine Will Visit Ali Ghan Temple

Imperial Potentate To Be Here Aug. 11, 12

Imperial Potentate Hubert M. Poteat, accompanied by his wife, will make an official visit to Ali Ghan Temple, A.A.O. N.M.S., on Thursday and Friday, August 11 and 12.

The imperial potentate will arrive in Cumberland between 3 and 4 p. m. on Thursday. He will be welcomed at Fort Cumberland Hotel by the entire elective divan of the local Temple.

At 6:15 p. m., he and Mrs. Poteat will be honored with a banquet at Ali Ghan Country Club. Following the dinner, the imperial potentate will speak.

Shriners of Ali Ghan Temple will hear words of strong support for the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. In a statement, just issued, Imperial Potentate Poteat says:

"The world's greatest philanthropy" is no idle phrase, nor is it an empty boast. On September 16, 1922, the first unit of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children was opened at Shreveport. Since that day, 15 other units have been established, and the cornerstone of another was laid in Los Angeles June 19.

"All Shriners are aware of the fact that the order was founded as a playground for Masons. Not all Shriners, perhaps, have taken time to reflect that no man has any right to play until he has contributed to the happiness of other people — until he has wiped away the tears of suffering from the cheek of some human being less fortunate than he.

"More than 200,000 children have been treated and healed in these temples of mercy. What an 'offering of sweet savor to the Lord'." And not a single one of this host of boys and girls was asked about race, creed or color. They were sick and afflicted and they couldn't pay for the service of a doctor — that was all the Shrine wanted to know.

"Let no Shriner delude himself into believing that there is plenty of money to operate these blessed institutions. There isn't. As all of us know, the cost of everything has skyrocketed and the purchasing power of the dollar has plunged downward. It is a cold and sobering fact that the hospitals would have been compelled to close before now, had they not received substantial sums in wills, bequests, and gifts — many of them from non-Shriners.

After the imperial potentate's remarks, the uniformed bodies of Ali Ghan Temple will present a Parade of the Units in honor of the imperial potentate. Then will follow the traditional reception and dancing.

Flintstone Stork Prefers Memorial Hospital Drive

Two-day-old Donald E. Perdew, Jr., is going to have a difficult time answering questions as to the place of his birth when he grows up.

He and his mother, Mrs. Marie Nelson Perdew, 22, Route 2, Flintstone, are now comfortably tucked into beds in Memorial Hospital, but Donald, Jr., wasn't quite born there.

In fact, he's probably one of the few babies who saw the outside of a hospital before he saw the inside. Donald was born Tuesday at 1 a.m. in the driveway of Memorial Hospital.

Not exactly in the driveway, it was in the front seat of the sedan driven by his father, a saw mill operator.

The elder Perdew said last night that his second child and first son decided to be born just before Mrs. Perdew could be taken into the hospital and before help could be obtained.

So, one hour after he began the 16-mile drive from his home, Perdew delivered his first baby — his own son.

He took it quite calmly, noting that the hospital nurses were considerably more upset than he. And the baby and mother have been pronounced "doing fine."

Soon, the Perdews will take a 7 pound 15 ounce baby brother home to their two-year-old daughter who was born quite traditionally inside the hospital.

LEAVING—H. Lee Silcox, Red Cross First Aid chairman and local funeral director, will leave here Monday for the West Coast.

H. Lee Silcox To Leave For West Coast Soon

Daughter's Health Prompts Move

The resignation of H. Lee Silcox as chairman of the First Aid and Water Safety program of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross was announced yesterday by Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary.

Silcox and his wife and family, who reside at 404 Decatur Street, will leave here Monday for San Francisco to settle somewhere in the West Coast area.

Silcox said the reason for his sudden decision to leave here was that his youngest daughter, Jean Kay, 11, is suffering from a climatic allergy and physicians have suggested a continuous warm climate.

Mrs. Witherup expressed the regrets of the Red Cross at Silcox's resignation and said no successor has yet been appointed.

Silcox has been chairman of the Red Cross First Aid and Safety program here since 1940. He also served as co-chairman with Thomas B. Finan of the chapter's disaster program.

Since 1940, when he completed a Red Cross First Aid instructor's course, he has taught standard and advanced first aid to thousands of persons of Western Maryland.

A partner in the Kight Funeral Home here since 1943, Silcox came to Cumberland in 1936 from Johnstown, Pa.

He has also been active in Boy Scout work here and was chairman of the leadership training committee of Cumberland District. He was also senior councilor of the United Commercial Travelers here.

He is married to the former Ruth Kaufman, of Boswell, Pa. They have one other daughter, Sue Lee Ann, 13.

Silcox said he has as yet made no business plans in the West.

Mental Hygiene Clinics Planned Next Week

Hagerstown Officials See City Merit Files

Job Survey Sought By Cumberland

Cumberland and Hagerstown, Western Maryland's two largest cities, are both working on plans to classify municipal jobs under their respective Civil Service systems.

Yesterday, Hagerstown officials spent the day inspecting files already set up for City of Cumberland merit system personnel.

The City of Hagerstown is working out plans to set up the Civil Service program incorporated in the new city charter which went into effect in March of 1949, according to Ralph B. Wyand, acting Hagerstown personnel manager.

Included in the city's plans is a job classification schedule, Wyand said. That is, an analysis of each job according to the duties performed, the skill necessary for each job and the pay scale applicable to each position.

City Seeks Survey

The job classification program also provides for periodic wage increases within each job level, Wyman pointed out.

Cumberland's City Attorney W. Earle Cobey yesterday wrote a letter to the Department of Government and Politics of the College of Business and Public Administration of the University of Maryland asking the bureau to conduct a job classification survey for this city.

Cobey explained that the local Civil Service Commission has a file on all city personnel, but no actual classification of jobs.

The City Council voted some time ago to ask the local office of the State Department of Employment Security to make such a survey, but the office replied that other duties made the study impossible.

Later, the council decided to ask the bureau to make the survey. The university department made a study of the city government in 1947.

Department Heads Praised

Wyand complimented the City of Cumberland on the efficiency of its department heads and noted that the present files present a complete coverage of city personnel.

He added that the Hagerstown officials were impressed with Cumberland's compensation plan and the establishment of salaries according to existing standards in area industries.

Wyand said Hagerstown hopes to have its Civil Service system in operation by next month.

Also here from Hagerstown were Councilman J. Frank Elliott, Councilman J. Glen Hellane and City Clerk Elden L. Kearney.

Representing Cumberland were Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property; George H. Tederick, commissioner of water and electric lights; C. William Spangler, a member of the Civil Service Commission, and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery.

PHA Official Inspects Local Housing Plans

Philip Shaw, project planner for the Philadelphia, Pa., Field Office of the Public Housing Administration, was in Cumberland yesterday inspecting plans for low-cost housing here, according to James B. Raines, executive director of the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Shaw consulted with S. Russ Minter, architect for the project.

The meeting of the Cumberland Housing Authority scheduled yesterday has been postponed until next Wednesday at 4 p. m.

Preparing To Shove Off

Mrs. Helen E. Metz, storekeeper second class of the local Naval Reserve unit, is making a final check of equipment for two of four men called to active duty by the Fifth Navy Commandant. For Mrs. Metz the check is not exactly routine — the man standing alongside her is Lewis D. Metz, chief radioman, and husband of the storekeeper. Both are veterans of World War II. Ward L. Ashby (right), of Crellin, an electronics technician, second class, will report to Baltimore with Metz for reassignment to active duty.

Four Reservists Called To Duty By U. S. Navy

Men Are First To Be Called From Area

The first four Naval Reservists from the Cumberland area were called to active duty yesterday with orders to report to Baltimore for processing and reassignment.

Comander F. A. Lewis, commanding officer of the local unit, said Clarence J. Bittle, 32, Cresaptown and Leonard W. Carney, 41, of 207 Cecelia Street, were called for active duty in the Seabees and Ward L. Ashby, 24, Crellin, and Lewis D Metz, 29, of 828 Shawnee Avenue, were called up by the Navy.

The Seabee duo received their orders Friday and will report to Baltimore for assignment August 10. Ashby and Metz have not been notified of reporting dates as yet.

The quartet are the first individual reservists to be called from the Cumberland area, although the local Marine unit has already reported.

All four men are classed by the Navy as civilian specialists, Commander Lewis said, in explaining their call to duty. Each signed papers indicating they would be ready for active service if called.

Metz and Ashby, both members of the local Surface Division ND 5-9 of the Naval Reserve, are veterans of World War II. Both saw considerable service in the South Pacific Theater.

Metz served part of the war years aboard a battleship and the remainder in an amphibious force. He holds a rating as chief radioman.

Ashby, an electronics technician, second class, served at sea and on the Pacific Islands.

Both men, Commander Lewis, said likely will be assigned to immediate sea duty.

Bittle, a utilities man, first class, and Carney, a construction man, were not in service during World War II.

Metz's call to active duty will not leave the family without representation in the local unit. His wife herself a veteran WAVE of World War II service, was on hand last night to make a final check of his equipment.

Mrs. Metz holds a rating of storekeeper second class in the local unit.

Orders for the four men to report were issued by the Commandant of the Fifth Naval District, which embraces Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and a portion of Kentucky.

Bowling Green Baby Contest Entrants Assured Good Care

Mothers entering their children in the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company's baby contest can do so with perfect confidence they will have the best of care.

Seven trained baby sitters will be on hand August 16 at 8 p. m. at the Bowling Green Fire Hall to take care of the infants.

In addition, according to Mrs. Lewis C. Millholland, chairman of the arrangements committee, a local diaper service has volunteered to set up a special booth for dealing with all eventualities.

Mrs. Millholland has been informed that trained personnel will man the booth so that mothers will not have to remove their babies from the contest suddenly.

Children will be judged in three classes, Mrs. Millholand said. There will be infants division, one to two-year-old division, and three to four-year-old class.

Judges will be Mrs. Harry Beneman, Dr. Thomas Robinson and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Robert W. Moreland will be master of ceremonies.

About 30 babies have been entered so far. The contest is a feature of the annual Bowling Green Volunteer Fireman's bazaar August 14 through 19.

Children from Bowling Green, Potomac Park and Fairgo who have not reached their fifth birthday may be entered by application to Mrs. Millholland.

Lessee Seeks To Halt Sale Of Mine Tools

Third Party Asks Court For Ruling

A double-barreled legal question was raised in Circuit Court yesterday in moves to prevent sale of coal mining equipment under a distraining order for alleged default in royalty payments.

The questions are (a) the real meaning of a royalty clause in a contract and (b) the landlord's right to distrain property of a third party which claims it was unknowingly involved.

Two separate petitions to prevent the sale were filed against William D. Williams, lessor of the Mutts Mine in Mt. Savage. One was filed by Walter Blank, lessee, who denies the charge of defaulting in royalty payments.

The second petition was filed by the Mt. Savage Refractory Company, which claims ownership of part of the equipment under distraint, but declares Blank moved the equipment to the mine without company permission.

Blank, a former employe of the refractories company, told the court there was a verbal modification added to the contract which reduced the amount of royalty per ton after a minimum number of tons of coal were mined each month.

It is on the basis of this verbal agreement that he claims the charge of royalty default is false.

The court was informed that Williams secured the distraining order in 1949, but did not attempt to execute sale of the property until May of this year.

Council for the refractories companies immediately raised the question of time that a distraining order is in effect. Later, legal authorities said a sale is usually executed within five days after an order is issued.

The day's session was recessed after Associate Judge George Henderson instructed counsel for the three parties to submit a report of royalty payments as well as a report of Williams' record of the coal mined.

William A. Gunter represents Williams; Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., the refractories company and William Geppert and John Fey, Blank.

Long said the report is being prepared in an effort to point up accident hazards that city employes encounter on the job.

High-Speed Flying Ace To Perform Here Sunday

Ben Huntley, high-speed aerobatic ace, will perform in the Cumberland Air Show Sunday afternoon along with other professional stunt pilots of Deaton's Air Circus, of Charlotte, N. C., at Municipal Airport.

A few of his aerobatics include outside loops, inverted Cuban Eights, four-point and eight-point slow rolls, most of which are performed about 300 feet above the landing field.

Other acts on the program will include wing-walking; a man hanging down by his feet and picking up a ribbon from the ground with his hands, and a parachute jump by Don Edwards, the "Human Bat Man," who glides through the air for more than two miles on a man-made pair of wings.

There will be stunts combining airplanes and automobiles, including picking a man from an automobile with a rope ladder from the aircraft, and the landing of a small plane on the top of an automobile.

The city's first professional air show in three years is being sponsored by the management of the airport, with Lewis J. Ort, LaVale, as general chairman in charge of arrangements.

The automobile parking on airport property will be handled by the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company. Special bus service from down town Cumberland is being arranged.

In asking support in Western Maryland, Butler said the coming elections must not be considered ordinary elections since the issues at stake are the greatest ever to be faced by the United States.

"I never heard of a communist in the Republican Party," Butler declared.

As candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senate, Butler met with the club to discuss fundamentals of Republicanism and today's opportunities for Republican leadership.

D. Jerome Wilson and James G. Neilson, Jr., president and secretary of the club, made public the following statement issued by Butler.

Issues Statement

"As a native son of Maryland I have found it difficult to believe that Senator Tydings accurately represents in Washington the basic interests and beliefs of the majority of Maryland people.

"We want the kind of careful attention to all elements of our national security that makes military unpreparedness impossible.

"We expect enthusiastic support from our representatives in Washington for a continuance of the form of self-government that has placed this country head and shoulders above the rest of the world.

"And I believe that Marylanders expect from our senators a maximum of service in the public interest and a minimum of service in the special interests of questionable policies and practices of the national administration.

"This, then is my platform: To bring a strong Maryland voice to the reaffirmation and strengthening of American principles; to be a representative in the United States Senate who will be first for Maryland and what this state stands for."

Special Jury Called In Trooper's Death

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 2 (AP)—Judge Joseph D. Mish today called the Washington County Grand Jury into special session for next Monday to consider the killing of State Trooper Lauren M. Ridge.

The 29-year-old trooper was shot to death July 14 while trying to disarm a former circus performer who had fired at a car occupied by two tax assessors.

Steve Oris, 61, who was shot four times by other officers, is charged with the murder. He is in fair condition at the Washington County Hospital.

Ridge, the first Maryland state policeman to be killed in line of duty, had attempted to wrest a rifle from Oris. Witnesses said Oris drew a revolver and shot Ridge.

Oris later was driven from his house by tear gas and was shot when he did not drop his gun after emerging.

Head Of Shrine Will Visit Ali Ghan Temple

Imperial Potentate To Be Here Aug. 11, 12

Imperial Potentate Hubert M. Poteat, accompanied by his wife, will make an official visit to Ali Ghan Temple, A.A.O. N.M.S., on Thursday and Friday, August 11 and 12.

The imperial potentate will arrive in Cumberland between 3 and 4 p. m. on Thursday. He will be welcomed at Fort Cumberland Hotel by the entire elective divan of the local Temple.

At 6:15 p. m., he and Mrs. Poteat will be honored with a banquet at Ali Ghan Country Club. Following the dinner, the imperial potentate will speak.

Shriners of Ali Ghan Temple will hear words of strong support for the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. In a statement, just issued, Imperial Potentate Poteat says:

"The world's greatest philanthropy" is no idle phrase, nor is it an empty boast. On September 16, 1922, the first unit of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children was opened at Shreveport. Since that day, 15 other units have been established, and the cornerstone of another was laid in Los Angeles June 19.

"All Shriners are aware of the fact that the order was founded as a playground for Masons. Not all Shriners, perhaps, have taken time to reflect that no man has any right to play until he has contributed to the happiness of other people — until he has wiped away the tears of suffering from the cheek of some human being less fortunate than he.

"More than 200,000 children have been treated and healed in these temples of mercy. What an 'offering of sweet savor to the Lord'." And not a single one of this host of boys and girls was asked about race, creed or color. They were sick and afflicted and they couldn't pay for the service of a doctor — that was all the Shrine wanted to know.

"Let no Shriner delude himself into believing that there is plenty of money to operate these blessed institutions. There isn't. As all of us know, the cost of everything has skyrocketed and the purchasing power of the dollar has plunged downward. It is a cold and sobering fact that the hospitals would have been compelled to close before now, had they not received substantial sums in wills, bequests, and gifts — many of them from non-Shriners.

After the imperial potentate's remarks, the uniformed bodies of Ali Ghan Temple will present a Parade of the Units in honor of the imperial potentate. Then will follow the traditional reception and dancing.

LEAVING—H. Lee Silcox, Red Cross First Aid chairman and local funeral director, will leave here Monday for the West Coast.

H. Lee Silcox To Leave For West Coast Soon

Daughter's Health Prompts Move

The resignation of H. Lee Silcox as chairman of the First Aid and Water Safety program of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross was announced yesterday by Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary.

Silcox and his wife and family, who reside at 404 Decatur Street, will leave here Monday for San Francisco to settle somewhere in the West Coast area.

Silcox said the reason for his sudden decision to leave here was that his youngest daughter, Jean Kay, 11, is suffering from a climatic allergy and physicians have suggested a continuous warm climate.

Mrs. Witherup expressed the regrets of the Red Cross at Silcox's resignation and said no successor has yet been appointed.

Silcox has been chairman of the Red Cross First Aid and Safety program here since 1940. He also served as co-chairman with Thomas B. Finan of the chapter's disaster program.

Since 1940, when he completed a Red Cross First Aid instructor's course, he has taught standard and advanced first aid to thousands of persons of Western Maryland.

A partner in the Kight Funeral Home here since 1943, Silcox came to Cumberland in 1936 from Johnstown, Pa.

He has also been active in Boy Scout work here and was chairman of the leadership training committee of Cumberland District. He was also senior councilor of the United Commercial Travelers here.

He is married to the former Ruth Kaufman, of Boswell, Pa. They have one other daughter, Sue Lee Ann, 13.

Silcox said he has as yet made no business plans in the West.

Hagerstown Officials See City Merit Files

Job Survey Sought By Cumberland

Cumberland and Hagerstown, Western Maryland's two largest cities, are both working on plans to classify municipal jobs under their respective Civil Service systems.

Yesterday, Hagerstown officials spent the day inspecting files already set up for City of Cumberland merit system personnel.

The City of Hagerstown is working out plans to set up the Civil Service program incorporated in the new city charter which went into effect in March of 1949, according to Ralph B. Wyand, acting Hagerstown personnel manager.

Included in the city's plans is a job classification schedule, Wyand said. That is, an analysis of each job according to the duties performed, the skill necessary for each job and the pay scale applicable to each position.

City Seeks Survey

The job classification program also provides for periodic wage increases within each job level, Wyman pointed out.

Cumberland's City Attorney W. Earle Cobey yesterday wrote a letter to the Department of Government and Politics of the College of Business and Public Administration of the University of Maryland asking the bureau to conduct a job classification survey for this city.

Cobey explained that the local Civil Service Commission has a file on all city personnel, but no actual classification of jobs.

The City Council voted some time ago to ask the local office of the State Department of Employment Security to make such a survey, but the office replied that other duties made the study impossible.

Later, the council decided to ask the bureau to make the survey. The university department made a study of the city government in 1947.

Department Heads Praised

Wyand complimented the City of Cumberland on the efficiency of its department heads and noted that the present files present a complete coverage of city personnel.

He added that the Hagerstown officials were impressed with Cumberland's compensation plan and the establishment of salaries according to existing standards in area industries.

Wyand said Hagerstown hopes to have its Civil Service system in operation by next month.

Also here from Hagerstown were Councilman J. Frank Elliott, Councilman J. Glen Hellane and City Clerk Elden L. Kearney.

Representing Cumberland were Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property; George H. Tederick, commissioner of water and electric lights; C. William Spangler, a member of the Civil Service Commission, and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery.

In addition, according to Mrs. Lewis C. Millholland, chairman of the arrangements committee, a local diaper service has volunteered to set up a special booth for dealing with all eventualities.

Mrs. Millholland has been informed that trained personnel will man the booth so that mothers will not have to remove their babies from the contest suddenly.

Children will be judged in three classes, Mrs. Millholand said. There will be infants division, one to two-year-old division, and three to four-year-old class.

Judges will be Mrs. Harry Beneman, Dr. Thomas Robinson and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Robert W. Moreland will be master of ceremonies.

About 30 babies have been entered so far. The contest is a feature of the annual Bowling Green Volunteer Fireman's bazaar August 14 through 19.

Lessee Seeks To Halt Sale Of Mine Tools

Third Party Asks Court For Ruling

A double-barreled legal question was raised in Circuit Court yesterday in moves to prevent sale of coal mining equipment under a distraining order for alleged default in royalty payments.

The questions are (a) the real meaning of a royalty clause in a contract and (b) the landlord's right to distrain property of a third party which claims it was unknowingly involved.

Two separate petitions to prevent the sale were filed against William D. Williams, lessor of the Mutts Mine in Mt. Savage. One was filed by Walter Blank, lessee, who denies the charge of defaulting in royalty payments.

The second petition was filed by the Mt. Savage Refractory Company, which claims ownership of part of the equipment under distraint, but declares Blank moved the equipment to the mine without company permission.

Blank, a former employe of the refractories company, told the court there was a verbal modification added to the contract which reduced the amount of royalty per ton after a minimum number of tons of coal were mined each month.

It is on the basis of this verbal agreement that he claims the charge of royalty default is false.

The court was informed that Williams secured the distraining order in 1949, but did not attempt to execute sale of the property until May of this year.

Council for the refractories companies immediately raised the question of time that a distraining order is in effect. Later, legal authorities said a sale is usually executed within five days after an order is issued.

The day's session was recessed after Associate Judge George Henderson instructed counsel for the three parties to submit a report of royalty payments as well as a report of Williams' record of the coal mined.

William A. Gunter represents Williams; Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., the refractories company and William Geppert and John Fey, Blank.

Four Reservists Called To Duty By U. S. Navy

Men Are First To Be Called From Area

The first four Naval Reservists from the Cumberland area were called to active duty yesterday with orders to report to Baltimore for processing and reassignment.

Comander F. A. Lewis, commanding officer of the local unit, said Clarence J. Bittle, 32, Cresaptown and Leonard W. Carney, 41, of 207 Cecelia Street, were called for active duty in the Seabees and Ward L Ashby, 24, Crellin, and Lewis D Metz, 29, of 828 Shawnee Avenue, were called up by the Navy.

The Seabee duo received their orders Friday and will report to Baltimore for assignment August 10. Ashby and Metz have not been notified of reporting dates as yet.

The quartet are the first individual reservists to be called from the Cumberland area, although the local Marine unit has already reported.

All four men are classed by the Navy as civilian specialists, Commander Lewis said, in explaining their call to duty. Each signed papers indicating they would be ready for active service if called.

Metz and Ashby, both members of the local Surface Division ND 5-9 of the Naval Reserve, are veterans of World War II. Both saw considerable service in the South Pacific Theater.

Metz served part of the war years aboard a battleship and the remainder in an amphibious force. He holds a rating as chief radioman.

Ashby, an electronics technician, second class, served at sea and on the Pacific Islands.

Both men, Commander Lewis, said likely will be assigned to immediate sea duty.

Bittle, a utilities man, first class, and Carney, a construction man, were not in service during World War II.

Metz's call to active duty will not leave the family without representation in the local unit. His wife herself a veteran WAVE of World War II service, was on hand last night to make a final check of his equipment.

Mrs. Metz holds a rating of storekeeper second class in the local unit.

Orders for the four men to report were issued by the Commandant of the Fifth Naval District, which embraces Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and a portion of Kentucky.

Flintstone Stork Prefers Memorial Hospital Drive

Two-day-old Donald E. Perdew, Jr., is going to have a difficult time answering questions as to the place of his birth when he grows up.

He and his mother, Mrs. Marie Nelson Perdew, 22, Route 2, Flintstone, are now comfortably tucked into beds in Memorial Hospital, but Donald, Jr., wasn't quite born there.

In fact, he's probably one of the few babies who saw the outside of a hospital before he saw the inside. Donald was born Tuesday at 1 a.m. in the driveway of Memorial Hospital.

Not exactly in the driveway, it was in the front seat of the sedan driven by his father, a saw mill operator.

The elder Perdew said last night that his second child and first son decided to be born just before Mrs. Perdew could be taken into the hospital and before help could be obtained.

So, one hour after he began the 16-mile drive from his home, Perdew delivered his first baby — his own son.

He took it quite calmly, noting that the hospital nurses were considerably more upset than he. And the baby and mother have been pronounced "doing fine."

Soon, the Perdews will take a 7 pound 15 ounce baby brother home to their two-year-old daughter who was born quite traditionally inside the hospital.

High-Speed Flying Ace To Perform Here Sunday

Ben Huntley, high-speed aerobatic ace, will perform in the Cumberland Air Show Sunday afternoon along with other professional stunt pilots of Deaton's Air Circus, of Charlotte, N. C., at Municipal Airport.

Huntley will fly the famed 450-horsepower Pitts Special. This ship was designed and built by Curtis Pitts and is equipped with smoke that billows out the exhaust pipe, marking the trail of Huntley's maneuvers.

A few of his aerobatics include outside loops, inverted Cuban Eights, four-point and eight-point slow rolls, most of which are performed about 300 feet above the landing field.

Other acts on the program will include wing-walking; a man hanging down by his feet and picking up a ribbon from the ground with his hands, and a parachute jump by Don Edwards, the "Human Bat Man," who glides through the air for more than two miles on a man-made pair of wings.

There will be stunts combining airplanes and automobiles, including picking a man from an automobile with a rope ladder from the aircraft, and the landing of a small plane on the top of an automobile.

The city's first professional air show in three years is being sponsored by the management of the airport, with Lewis J. Ort, LaVale, as general chairman in charge of arrangements.

The automobile parking on airport property will be handled by the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company. Special bus service from down town Cumberland is being arranged.
